County Eating Places Under Investigation By Health Department

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

About 10 per cent of Ulster County's approximately 500 restaurants are flirting with the danger zone in regard to sanitary health standards, according to Ulster County Health Commissioner Bartholomew J. Dutto who has a plan to cope with chronic and other offenders.

Dr. Dutto said the state is presently considering rating eating establishments on an "A," "B" or "C" basis and making the rating public. "If the state doesn't do it, I'm going to," he said.

The commissioner is also planning to suggest that restaurants, camps, motels and hotels which serve food pay fees for inspection of their premises: "It would be a deductible item for them," he suggests adding that he doesn't feel the taxpayers should have to subsidize such inspections. Charging fees might also cut down on the number of inspections necessary in the sense that it would probably prompt eating establishment owners to comply more readily with health regulations to avoid additional fees, he said.

Although he has a team of inspectors, Dr. Dutto himself has been making inspections also and they have found such things as accumulative dirt, evidence of mice and roaches in store-rooms, pizza brushes lying on a floor, dogs on the premises, cooks smoking while cooking, poor ventilation and uncovered garbage and rubbish.

Special

Dr. Dutto also points out that there are also many fine eating establishments where cleanliness has top priority and said he only wishes he could name them at this time. Consequently a rating system, he adds, would be invaluable to the patrons as well as the businesses themselves.

The commissioner has been working with the Legislature's Public Health Committee and its chairman, Melvin Mones (R-City), on developing plans to implement the rating-fee program.

A number of summer camps are also the target of Dr. Dutto's criticism as well as some of the county's resort hotels where some quarters for hotel help are "horrible," he said.

"The camps try to get away with as little as possible," he explained, citing one example where a camp swimming pool chlorinator was not functioning properly and the owners placed lumps of chlorine in the water which Dr. Dutto said could burn a child's skin.

At another hotel he found a 10,000 gallon oil tank in proximity to the living quarters of the employees. It is a dirty place, he said "It is not a place you would want anyone to live."

Pointing out that the Ulster County Health Department makes frequent inspections of food supplies, food protection, cleanliness, construction, personnel, water supply, plumbing, toilets and a multitude of other items he said each establishment is scrutinized and appraised.

State law passed this year now requires that failure to comply with the law in this regard is punishable by fines of up to $250 and up to 15 days in jail for first offenders and for second or subsequent offenses fines of up to $500 and up to 15 days in jail or both.

Dr. Dutto said his department has engineers to help business with their problems and that inspectors are more than willing to discuss health problems with restaurant, hotel and camp owners.

"I don't mind people calling me," he said, "that is what I am here for."

Wants Innocence Proclaimed

Nixon On the Offensive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, opening a many-sided campaign to restore his credibility, called in more GOP congressmen today to personally proclaim his innocence concerning Watergate and other allegations against him.

As part of what was clearly a new offensive against calls for his resignation and impeachment, the President also promised by Nov. 20 to surrender more tapes and Watergate documents than U.S. District Court had asked for. But he said he cannot find another recording he was to have given the court.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Monday a staff of nine attorneys was compiling the various charges that have crept into public print about Nixon, his friends and his family, and the information to refute them.

"These are things that the President is going to address and clear up and discuss thoroughly," Ziegler said. Other officials said the President's defense would be made in public statements, news conferences and more meetings with legislators in coming weeks and months.

Ziegler said Nixon would hold meetings this week with all 234 Republican and "some" Democratic members of Congress.

Meanwhile, the Senate Watergate Committee voted 5-1 today to request a formal meeting with President Nixon at the White House on all aspects of the scandal.

At the same time the seven members of the committee said they would not participate in Nixon's dealings with other

Kemp Discusses Watergate

By WADE BURKHART

KERHONKSON

New York State Congressman Jack Kemp (R-38), one of the conservative wing of the Republican Party's rising young stars, delivered a rousing up-beat speech Monday night on the future of America as the keynote address for the 62nd Annual Meeting of the New York Farm Bureau, which opened at the Granit Hotel Monday.

"Great people always have great problems," said the 37-year-old Kemp, referring to America's current troubles, but he said the country has always solved its problems, and solved them well.

"To my way of thinking," he said, "it's 176 all over again." He disagreed with those who say the Watergate scandal proves the "system" is rotten to the core and dead. Kemp called Watergate, and its subsequent disclosure, a "vindication" of the system.

He said the uncovering of the scandal had been the work of a "crusading press" and an "independent judiciary," and had caused Congress to realize that it must "stand on its own two feet."

"There is going to be some good come out of this," he promised. Among the good coming out of Watergate will be election reform, and higher public standards for candidates, he felt.

Kemp, who delivered his latest presidential initiatives in Bureau address to a highly appreciative releasing further documents and general voluntary farm organ-audience of more than 500 memoranda to Federal Judgeization, with more than 70 per farmers and their wives from John Sirica and in meeting with cent of the state's families in across the state, warned that members of Congress. Kemp commercial agriculture en-

Oct. 22 Truce Lines Disputed

By United Press International

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said today Israel will not return to the Oct. 22 truce lines as part of a Middle East cease-fire agreement because no such lines exist. The return was ordered by the U.N. Security Council, and Egypt has made it the keystone of a Middle East settlement.

Mrs. Meir's statement in Parliament came in the midst of another crisis over implementation of the Sunday agreement signed by Israel and Egypt—the turning over of Israeli checkpoints on the Israeli-held Cairo-Suez City road to the U.N. peace-keeping force to give the U.N. control of the road.

Israel demands that a prisoner of war exchange accompany such a turnover and on Monday Israeli forces dismantled a checkpoint set up by the U.N. force. Fistfights broke out between the Israelis and the Finnish soldiers manning the post.

Israel said today the attempt by the United Nations to take over the road infringed on Israel's sovereignty since it would cut the Israeli forces in Egypt in two and might lead to resupply of the encircled Egyptian 3rd Army on the east side of the Suez Canal.

The situation which imperiled the cease-fire agreement was so serious that Finnish Maj. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force, flew to Jerusalem for talks with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan. Siilas-vuo said after the 30-minute meeting "there were no misunderstandings today."

Mrs. Meir told Parliament that "what has been called the position of 22 October" is a concept that never existed and does not exist in reality.

"On 22 October the I.D.F. (Israel Defense Force) was engaged in a running battle against the attacks of the Egyptian forces which did their best to overcome our troops," she said.

"No one can identify the positions of the two sides on 22 October," she said. "There were no U.N. observers in the area and the spokesman of the U.N. Emergency Force was right when he admitted on 29 October that he was unable to determine what the situation on the ground was on 22 October.

"I will say this," Mrs. Meir told the crowded chamber. "The definition 'positions of 22 October' was coined by the Egyptians and the Soviets as a political slogan intended to serve a dual purpose."

The purposes, she said, were to enable Egypt to accuse Israel of cease-fire violations and lift Israel's encirclement of Cairo's 3rd Army on the east bank of the Suez Canal.

The U.N. Security Council ordered a cease-fire on Oct. 22, but fighting continued during which Egypt contends the Israelis were able to encircle the Egyptian 3rd army and move into Suez City. A second cease-fire order two days later ended the fighting.

Israel contends that to give up control of the Cairo-Suez road would enable Egypt to resupply its trapped 3rd Army with both men and war materiel and cut in two the Israeli force now holding 625 square miles of Egypt. It threatened to cut off all supplies to the 3rd Army if the cease-fire agreements are not kept.

The major flareup occurred Monday when Finnish U.N. forces set up their own roadblock just outside Suez City and Israeli troops dismantled it. There were heated words but no shooting.

Although both sides were armed and angry.

Of all the measures triggered by the President's televised address last week, the one with the most immediate impact on people's lives would be the emergency petroleum act authorized by Jackson.

In addition to rationing, the bill would authorize the President to order such energy-saving steps as lower speed limits and shorter school hours in an effort to reduce by 25 per cent the nation's current consumption of roughly 18 million barrels of oil a day.

It's 'Energy Week' in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bills authorizing imposition of emergency fuel saving measures and construction of the Alaska pipeline head the legislative calendar in what Sen. Henry M. Jackson has dubbed "energy week in Congress."

The emergency petroleum act directing President Nixon to ration scarce fuels, including gasoline and home heating oil, was approved by the Senate Interior Committee Monday and is expected to reach the floor on Wednesday.

The Alaska pipeline bill is expected to gain easy Senate passage late today. The bill, approved by the House Monday, would allow construction of the 800-mile pipeline from Alaska's North Slope to a port in the south.

A Senate-House conference report that would result in the mandatory allocation of all fuel, from crude oil to gasoline, is expected to pass both houses some time this week.

Waiting in the wings are bills that would provide year-round daylight saving time, waive clean air guidelines to permit the burning of dirtier fuels and authorize $20 billion for the long-range development of new energy sources.

The House Commerce Committee scheduled hearings for late today on a return to daylight saving time while its Senate counterpart considers a similar proposal in closed session.

Jackson said his Interior Committee hoped to take up the multibillion dollar energy research and development bill in the afternoon.

Also under consideration but less likely to be enacted before the winter recess are measures approved Monday by the House interior subcommittee on the environment that would regulate the surface mining of coal and license deep water ports to accommodate supertankers.

In the Senate, an Interior subcommittee scheduled hearings on a bill that would authorize a federal take-over of off-shore wells in California's Santa Barbara Channel, where drilling has been suspended since a massive oil spill in 1969.

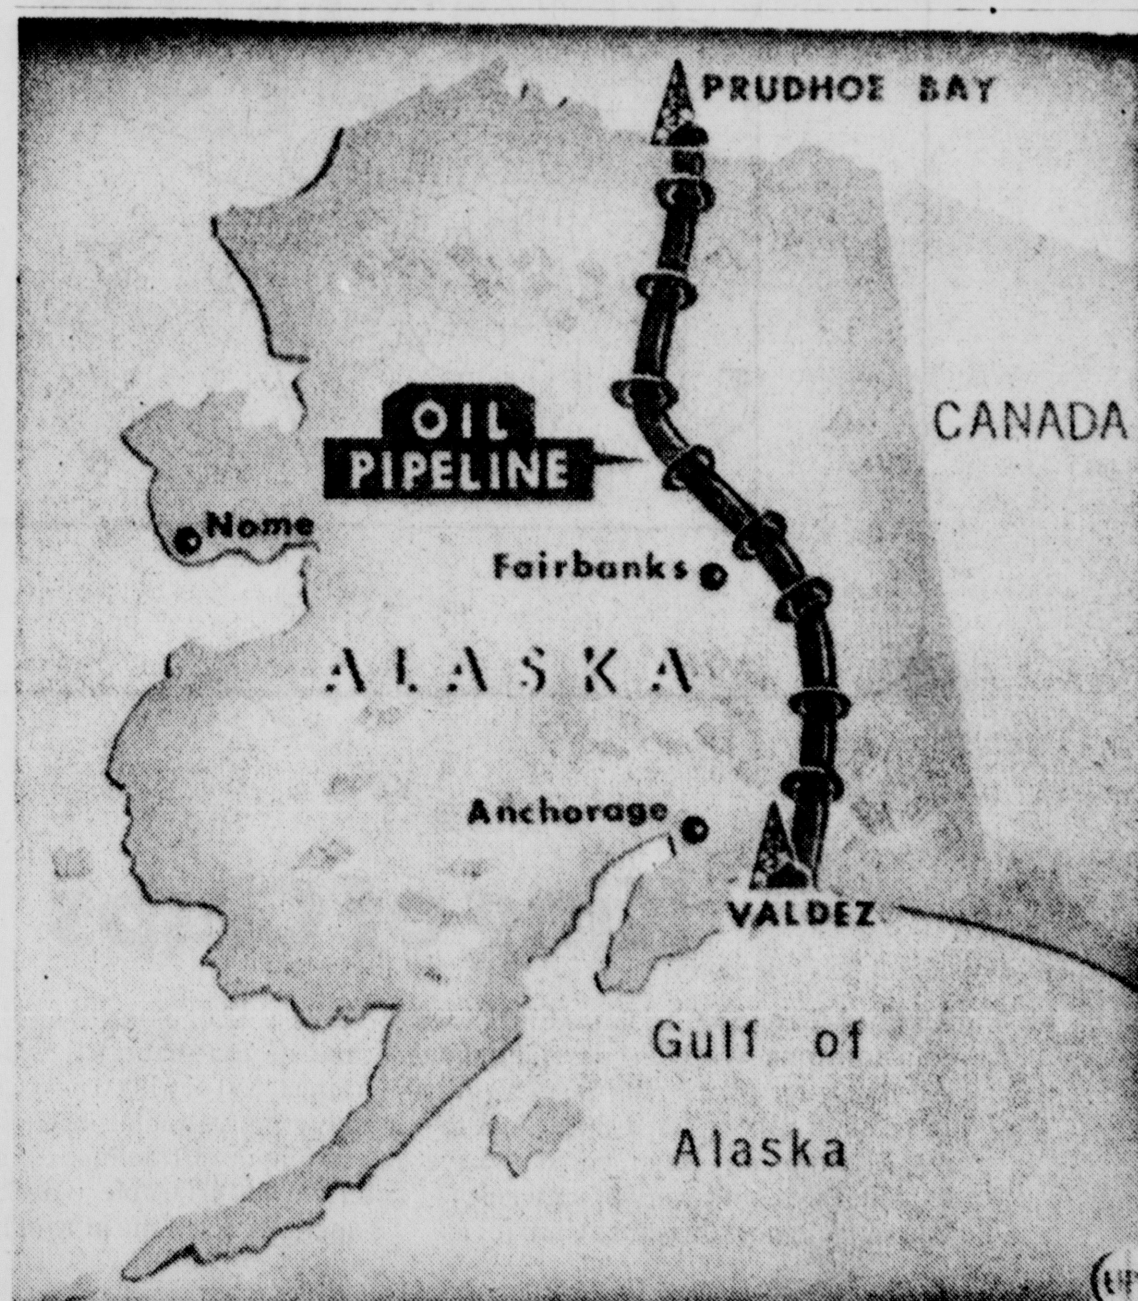

Administrator Russell Train of the Environmental Protection Agency gave his support to a proposal authorizing temporary suspension of clean air standards for individual power plants and factories.

Meanwhile, an executive of an American firm handling oil in Saudi Arabia, was quoted as saying the effect of the Arab oil boycott will be felt within weeks. M.M. Ameen, vice president of Aramco, was quoted as having told the House Republican Task Force on Energy that the effect of the boycott cannot be avoided.

Of all the measures triggered by the President's televised address last week, the one with the most immediate impact on people's lives would be the emergency petroleum act authorized by Jackson.

In addition to rationing, the bill would authorize the President to order such energy-saving steps as lower speed limits and shorter school hours in an effort to reduce by 25 per cent the nation's current consumption of roughly 18 million barrels of oil a day.

Ulster Dems Seeking New Reapport Plan

KINGSTON would like to start the wheels in motion for a new plan by asking the Legislature to establish a bi-partisan commission to draw up new legislative districts for the county. They suggest that the committee serve without pay and be composed of members of both parties "in order to insure the reapportionment plan is not developed on the basis of purely partisan political considerations."

Earlier this year both the GOP and the Democrats designed reapportionment plans of their own with only the Republican plan gaining the approval of GOP-dominated County Legislature. Now Brown and Hinchey would have reduced the number of legislative districts from 12 to eight.

Brown said that "If we can get together on a good, fairly drawn plan now, we can avoid a long and costly court fight later. The solid defeat of the Republican plan by the voters last Tuesday, shows that they are not going to accept county redistricting that is designed primarily to suit a special interest."

"The idea of a bi-partisan commission to settle the issue of reapportionment is not new," said Brown and Hinchey. "It was first proposed by Dr. Gerald Gorman county legislature minority leader, last spring. The results of Tuesday's referendum prove that Gorman's suggestion was a good one. It is essential that the government of this county come up with a reapportionment plan that is acceptable to its people. There is no good reason why both parties cannot work together on this issue," they said.

Suggesting that the legislature appoint a seven-member commission, composed of four Republicans and three Democrats, appointed by the chairman of the Legislature and the minority leader, Brown called for the development of a new plan "in no less than three or more than five months after the commission's inception."

During this time, public hearings "should be held in various parts of the county to insure maximum public participation," said Brown and Hinchey.

The Democrats also feel a special referendum should be held to allow all county voters to approve or reject the plan. "If this program is followed, it will greatly increase the likelihood of voter approval," they contended.

"The reapportionment plan that is finally agreed upon will guide the election of county legislators for at least the next 10 years and it is essential that it be done wisely and with the best interests of county foremost in mind," they concluded. Earlier this year the Supreme Court ruled that the present GOP reapportionment plan under which legislators were elected Nov. 6 is a valid re-apportionment and will stand as such for two years unless a new plan is drawn and put to a referendum or until such time as someone goes to court to force a new reapportionment plan to be drawn.

Ramsey Clark Slated at Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark will discuss "The Nixon Administration and the Rule of Law" Nov. 15 in the Vassar College chapel.

The 8 p.m. lecture, sponsored by the department of political science, will be open to the public without charge.

Clark is now in private law practice in Washington, D.C. and New York. He also teaches and writes. Earlier, he served President Kennedy as Assistant Attorney General and President Johnson as Deputy Attorney General and Attorney General.

An outspoken civil rights advocate, Clark was in the headlines last week in calling upon Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork to reopen a federal investigation of the death of Black Panther leader Fred Hampton.

Clark and Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged that there was "probable cause to believe" that Hampton was "murdered in the legal sense of the word" by Chicago police in the 1969 raid.

Since leaving the Justice Department in 1968, Clark has traveled to South Africa to study and protest apartheid and to North Vietnam to examine the results of American bombing and to visit American prisoners of war.

He has worked on behalf of Soviet Jewry and protested the treatment of political prisoners in Greece, Basil, Ireland and Spain.

Domestically, his clients have included the Rev. Philip Berrigan in the Harrisburg conspiracy trial and Craig Morton, the president of the Kent State student government who was indicted after the shootings at that university. He has also been active in various first amendment cases, prison reform, and the peace movement.

Guns Silent . . . War of Generals Goes on in Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — The guns are silent along the Suez Canal and the Golan Heights, but Israel's army is convulsed by an overdose of political recriminations brought on by the initial setbacks of the October war.

Until the war, army censorship did not allow any newspaper to quote a soldier — general as well as corporal — on his political views. But this policy has faltered in the welter of accusations over who was to blame for the surprise achieved by the Egyptian and Syrian attack and the Arabs' initial success.

The battle of words could affect the outcome of the national elections at the end of December. The key figures in the battle of words have been Maj. Gen. Ariel Sharon, who led the daring Israeli thrust across the Suez Canal to encircle the Egyptian 3rd Army; Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, the assistant chief of staff who gave his name to the canal defense line that the Egyptians overran, and the chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, who has been trying to hold the line for Premier Golda Meir's government. Sharon in peacetime is a right-wing politician, and his exploit on the battlefield indicated he might take some votes away from Mrs. Meir's socialist Labor party in the election. Then he told an American newsmen his superiors had not sent adequate reinforcements to bolster the spearhead he put across the canal. Elazar angrily retorted: "It may be less glamorous to fight to hold a bridgehead than to drive your tanks into Africa." Bar-Lev, a cabinet minister and supporter of Mrs. Meir who was returned to uniform for the war, was the next to join the fray. Possibly nettled by the comparison between the Bar-Lev Line and France's useless Maginot Line in World War II, he wrote in a local newspaper that the army was totally unready for the war and that there was insufficient armor and artillery behind the canal line.

This was considered an oblique attack on Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, whose political views Bar-Lev is known to oppose, as well as a defense of the Bar-Lev Line.

Elazar, in a talk with newspaper editors, said the generals were talking for "personal enhancement." He said he would investigate to determine what disciplinary action he could take against them.

Elazar admitted the military had made mistakes and promised a military inquiry. The cabinet also is considering a probe.

The newspaper Maariv called for an independent investigation and not "interviews of generals accusing each other of failures, evaluating their achievements on the basis of political affiliations."

Elazar warned of "a process of politicization" of the army that threatened to destroy its morale.

Kissinger, Chou in Business Meeting

PEKING (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai met today in what was expected to be the final business meeting of Kissinger's four-day visit amid indications a joint communiqué was being drafted.

There was speculation the United States, in a further bid to improve relations between the two powers, was prepared to announce a further withdrawal of American forces from Taiwan and South Korea.

The United States has already agreed—in the Shanghai communiqué issued at the end of President Nixon's China visit—that "there is but one China" and Taiwan is a part of it.

Adding to the speculation was the fact that the American delegation arrived at the government guest house where the meeting was being held an hour and a half late. In addition, some of Kissinger's key staff members were missing, although there were name cards for them at the long baize-covered conference table.

Before the meeting began, as Chou waited for Kissinger, the Chinese premier told reporters he would never visit the United States "as long as there is a representative of the Chiang Kai-shek clique" in Washington. Chou's comment was made good naturedly. And when he was asked how long he expected American-Taiwan diplomatic relations continue, he replied with a smile: "Why don't you put the question to Mr. Kissinger?"

The United States has reduced its contingent on the Chinese national island stronghold to about 8,000 men since the Shanghai communiqué. U.S. forces in South Korea at present number about 33,000.

China has been pushing for a U.S. pull-out to reduce tensions in the area, and according to Chinese sources, Kissinger has told Chinese officials he plans to stop in Seoul to confer with President Park Chung Hee when he leaves Tokyo, probably Friday morning en route back to Washington.

Kissinger met for nearly three hours with Chairman Mao Tse-tung Monday, but he would only tell newsmen today his talks with Mao and Premier Chou En-lai were "friendly."

The secretary of state said his conversation with Mao—his third with the Communist party chairman in six trips to Peking—was a full meeting. We covered most subjects.

Chinese and American officials apparently wrote their descriptions of the meetings after consulting one another. Both sides said the talks were "conducted in a friendly atmosphere."

Kissinger said the Chinese use of the word "friendly" was in itself an advance in Sino-American relations. The usual word for such meetings in the past has been "frank," a Chinese diplomatic word that means the sides agreed on little.

Arms Boom Is Expected

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Military spending in the Middle East is expected to create an international arms boom, as it did after the 1956 and 1967 Arab-Israeli wars, Swedish arms experts said Monday.

"Arms imports are certain to increase again," said Signe Landgren, an expert at the Stockholm Peace Research Institute.

In the early 1950s, the inflow of arms to the Middle East averaged about $40 million a year. At the time of the Suez War in 1956 it increased to around $200 million a year.

It rose again in the three years following the 1967 six-day war to around $600 million a year.

The International Peace Research Institute, established in 1966 to celebrate Sweden's 150 years of unbroken peace, is an independent organization for research into problems of peace and conflict with particular emphasis on disarmament and arms regulation.

It is financed by the Swedish government, but the staff, governing board and scientific council are international. Prof. Gunnar Myrdal is chairman.

Even before the latest U.S. and Soviet arms airlift, more than 90 per cent of the major weapons received by the Middle East countries came from the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain, according to the institute.

Your 19 year old may be headed for trouble January 1.

So act now.

If you have a son or daughter who turned 19 any time this year, their Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection may run out at midnight on December 31, 1973.

On New Year's Day, in that case, they're on their own. And that could be trouble.

So get them protected with their own contract.

Most young people are healthy.

But it's not something you should take for granted.

Now, some group contracts extend coverage for dependents beyond age 19. Others discontinue coverage on the 19th birthday. It's important that you know when your 19 year olds coverage ends.

If you belong to a group where you work, be sure to talk to the person who handles your Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage. But if you pay direct—and not through a group—send back the 19 Year Old transfer card we mailed you.

If you haven't received this card, or it got lost, mail us the coupon at right.

Don't put it off, you might forget.

You don't want your 19 year old to be unprotected on January 1.

I want to continue Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage for my 19 year old.

Please transfer him to his own individual contract beginning January 1, 1974. I understand that there is no cost to me until the beginning of 1974.

WORLD'S TALLEST MAN — Henry Hite, the world's only living skyscraper, bent his eight-foot-two-inch frame into the Shop-Rite Supermarket in the Town of Ulster Monday during a promotional tour through several eastern New York communities. The 300-pound 58-year-old giant — who's the first to know when it rains and really doesn't mind being called Stretch — has appeared (conspicuously) in television and the movies and has lumbered across four continents since his early vaudeville days. # 50 MPH Enforcement Awaiting Signs

By United Press International
Although the speed limit on the 559-mile State Thruway is officially 50 miles per hour today, officials say it will probably take a week before state police can begin enforcing the new limit.
State police and Thruway Authority officials disclosed Monday that a study of state law revealed that any change in speed limits could not be enforced until new signs were posted.
Officials hoped to begin posting the lower speed limit signs on the Thruway today, planning to finish the job in a week.
However, Transportation Department officials said the task of altering signs on all other state highways could take two to three weeks.
Governor Rockefeller had ordered the cutback on all state highways except the Thruway Saturday to conserve gasoline. The Thruway Authority followed suit Sunday, originally saying it would enforce the cutback today.
The state's maximum speed limit had been 55 mph unless otherwise posted. No limits were higher than 65 mph.
The change in speed limits was ordered under Article 37, Section 1620, of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, which gives the Department of Transportation power to change the usual 55 mph limit, spokesmen said.
While a weekend check of major state roads in eastern New York showed most motorists voluntarily slowing down, the slower speeds were not observed as often by Monday's rush hour traffic in the Albany area. While slower speeds were noted in the right lane of a major artery, it was pretty much "speed as usual" in the passing lanes.
Greyhound Bus Lines, in a statement issued in Phoenix, Ariz., said the mandatory 50 mph speed limits were having a "disastrous effect" on bus service, and would make it "impossible" to be sure of connections. A spokesman for Trailways said he didn't know how much of a change would have to be made.
While the focus of the energy conservation program was on the motoring public, a spokesman for the state's Office of General Services (OGS) said its "Save A Watt" campaign had made "considerable inroads" in reducing the amount of electrical power and heating oil used at state facilities.
The state used 120 million gallons of heating oil and 275 megawatts of power at all state facilities in New York last year, the OGS spokesman said. There was no estimate as to how much energy the campaign was aimed at saving.
Where lights are not absolutely necessary, they have been shut off, the spokesman said. He said thermostats have been moved down from 71 to 68 degrees.
The halls of the Capitol were dimmer than usual Monday as all lights, except those needed to make the hallways passable, were turned off.
The Department of Transportation's sign workshop in Hamburg was working at capacity to make the estimated 2,000 special number overlays which would be riveted over existing speed signs, a spokesman said. The cost of the signs was estimated at $4,000.
A spokesman for the Thruway Authority said its own sign makers in Albany were also turning out 50 mph markers—an estimated 340 at a total cost of $3,500.
Both agencies said regular road maintenance crews would install the new signs and, therefore, the cost of installation "cannot be figured."
Installation of the new signs on state highways will be done first on expressways and superhighways now posted at 65 mph, with 60 mph and 55 mph signs to be changed last.

Death Penalty Amendment
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—An up-state legislator says he will pre-gave juries leeway in imposing the maximum sentence.
Governor Rockefeller had stated after that decision that he would sign into law a bill re-instating the death penalty for two Sherrill policemen.
Assemblyman Gerald B. H. Solomon said Monday the amendment would mandate the death penalty for persons convicted of killing an on-duty police officer or prison guard.
Earlier in the day, the U.S. Supreme Court declined to hear an appeal of a state Court of Appeals decision striking down the New York's capital punishment law.
The state court had ruled the law unconstitutional because it

Hospital Workers Accept Compromise Hike

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's 30,000 striking non-medical hospital workers accepted a compromise wage hike of 6 percent and returned to work Monday, ending a week-long New York area Nov. 5 compromise proposal calls for a 6 percent or $9-a-week wage turn away many patients and Council (CLC) in Washington increase, whichever is higher. Before the strike, the average wage for the nonmedical workers was $140 a week.
The agreement was drafted by the CLC's Health Industry Wage Committee and the full CLC must vote on the compromise Monday, but approval was expected.
Moe Foner, the union's executive secretary, said the proposed pay raise really amounts to 9.3 percent, because the work week will be shortened from 40 to 37½ hours and hospital workers also will receive better vacations and other fringe benefits.

Community Help Is Sought By Home For Children

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — The Astor Home for Children is seeking community help for its volunteer program for emotionally disturbed children.

Through this program, the home in Rhinebeck provides its children with community contacts and socialization opportunities they would not have otherwise.

According to Mrs. Trudy Brewster, coordinator for the volunteer program, there is a great need for volunteer families who are willing to share their homes with the children for a day or a weekend visit.

These visits are usually made once a month or once every six weeks, and sometimes for holidays such as Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The Astor Home for Children has satellite offices in Poughkeepsie, Rhinebeck, Beacon, the Bronx and New York City. These facilities offer services to the community through a residential treatment center, child guidance clinics, day treatment centers, and foster homes.

Volunteer categories include teacher aides, counselor aides, transportation aides, clerical aides, and family visitors. The Home is also seeking volunteers who can sew, paint, or play musical instruments.

In all of these categories, Astor considers each volunteer as a member of the "treatment team" and expects and welcomes feedback after each contact with the child as a part of the volunteer commitment. The Home was founded in 1953 as one of three pilot centers designed to investigate the effectiveness of residential psychiatric treatment of children in small groups through an intensive, multi-disciplined approach.

Results of the pilot project, sponsored by the Mental Health Commission of the State of New York, revealed the value of such small centers in striking at the problem of emotional disturbances.

Since that time, the Astor Home has developed and expanded its program, and today provides residential treatment for 50 children, 32 boys and 18 girls.

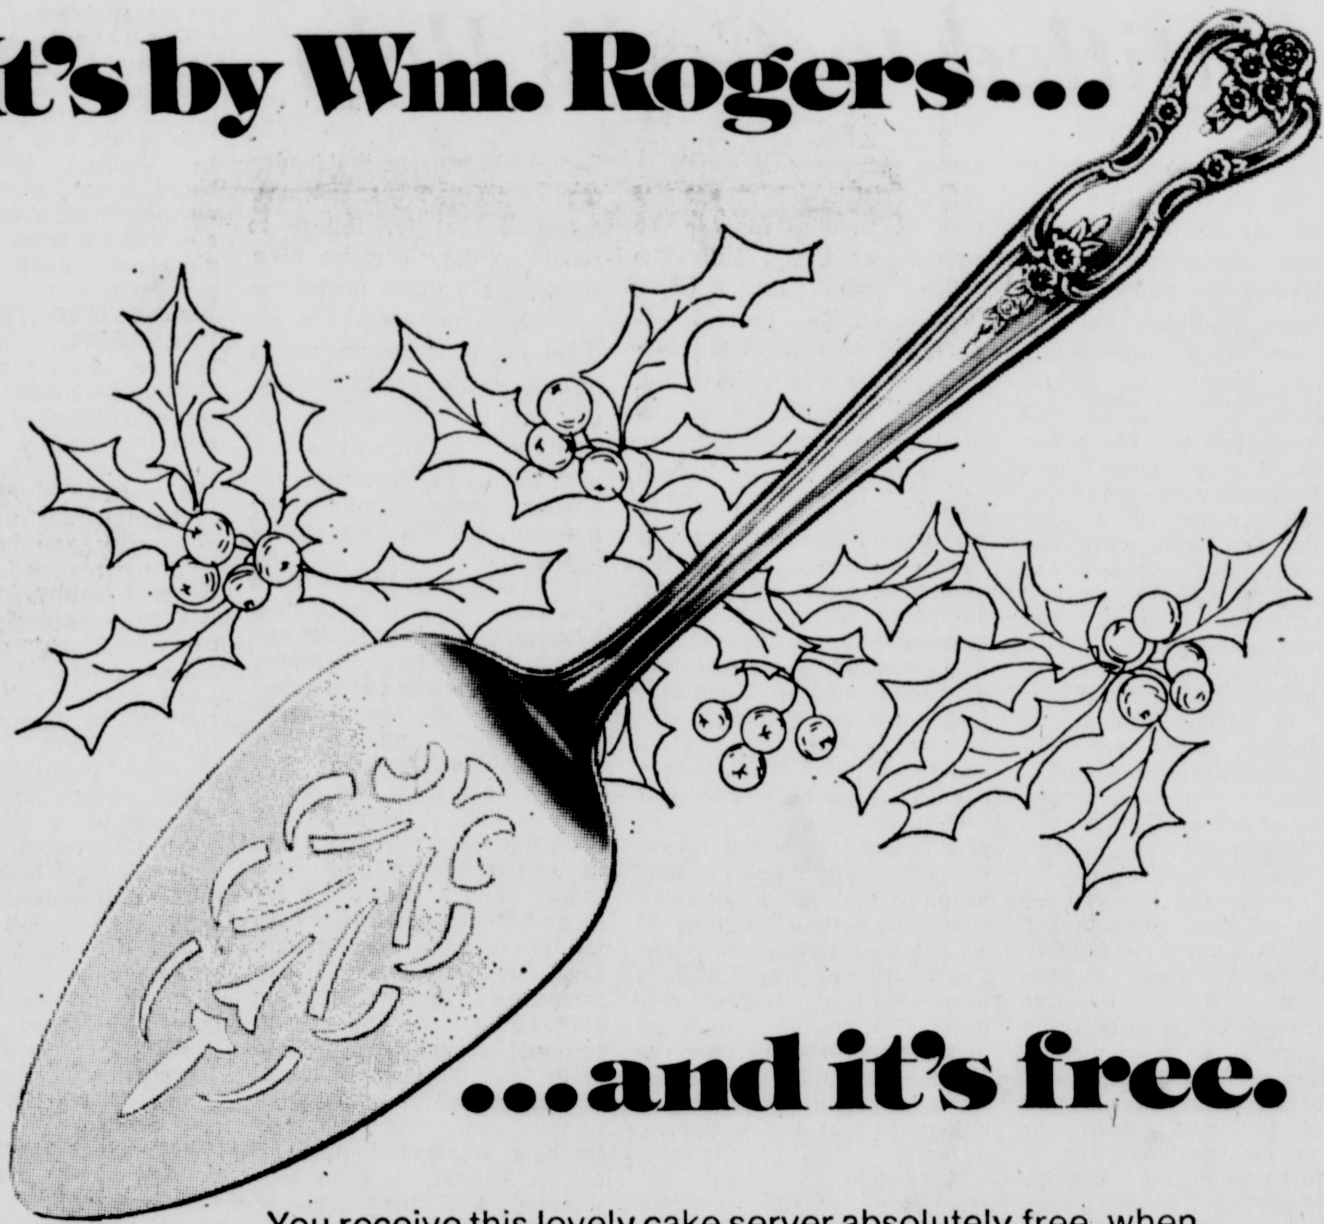

The Home is administered by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul and is affiliated with the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York.

Some admission requirements are: the child must be a New York State resident six through eleven if a boy and six through nine if a girl; with a minimum intelligence of low-average; unable to adjust to his own home, a foster home, or an institution with a less intensive program of treatment.

He/she should be unable to be helped through available community resources; physically able to participate in group activities; and capable of profiting from the Home's program of individual therapy and group living in an open setting.

Where there is a family and the plan is for the child to return to his own home, some cooperation on the part of the family is expected.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 13, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The White House not only stirred up tax trouble for President Nixon's declared "enemies" but also asked the Internal Revenue Service, in effect, to go easy on such presidential favorites as the Rev. Billy Graham and actor John Wayne.

This is the import of the secret, sworn testimony of John Caulfield, a former aide who intervened for the White House on tax cases. He told the Senate Watergate investigators behind closed doors that the President's former counsel, John Dean, had asked him to arrange tax audits of some individuals and to give gentle treatment to others.

We recently published the results of an American Civil Liberties Union study, which showed an unusual number of these on the White House "enemies list" had been scrutinized by Internal Revenue.

Caulfield testified, for example, that in 1971 "Dean asked... if an audit could be done on Robert Green, an investigation reporter who did a series of critical articles on Bebe Rebozo in Newsday."

'ANONYMOUS LETTER' Caulfield "spoke to Mike

Acree in the Internal Revenue Service," according to a secret summary of Caulfield's testimony, and "believes that an anonymous letter requesting an audit on Greene was later sent..."

Anonymous letters, apparently, were used by the White House to stimulate tax audits without leaving any trace.

Vernon "Mike" Acree, then the assistant commissioner at Internal Revenue, now head of the Customs Service, denied to us he either sent or caused to be sent any letter on the Newsday reporter. But Greene, head of Newsday's prize-winning investigative squad, was summoned by a New York State tax agent who said the IRS had suggested the state might want to examine his taxes. He went on with his Rebozo probe anyway and the tax investigation showed he owed not one penny.

Friends of the President got the opposite treatment. Caulfield testified that, in September 1971, Dean asked him to "determine whether or not Billy Graham and John Wayne were being harassed by the Internal Revenue Service. Tax information about comparable individuals was obtained... from Mike Acree."

'ROUTINE' Acree remembered the request on Graham and Wayne but refused to say from whom it came. He called it strictly "routine." Word from an assistant director's office about harassment, however, is taken inside the IRS as a signal to go easy on the taxpayer under investigation.

To Acree's credit, he balked at some of Dean's requests. Caulfield recalled that "on another occasion, Dean requested that three or four audits be done of specific individuals, and Acree was brought over to the White House to discuss the matter... with Dean." Caulfield was present when "Acree expressed little interest in the project and it was apparently dropped after the meeting."

FOOTNOTE: On at least one occasion, the White House used the IRS to check on someone offering the President a gift. Dean asked Caulfield, according to the testimony, "to determine whether an individual on the West Coast who wanted to give a wine cellar to the Western White House had any tax problems." Caulfield consulted Acree, "who determined that the individual was not above-board and so the gift was turned down."

In a talk with my associate Les Whitten, Acree remembered it was a company not an individual offering the gift and that he reported the firm did not have any tax problems.

PROTECTING THE PRESIDENT: The Secret Service, in its zeal to protect President Nixon, has been seizing giant-sized three dollar bills that poke a little gentle fun at him.

A stern-faced agent named Richard Stokes moved in on a novelty shop in Louisville, Ky., and alarmed its workers by confiscating huge one-by-two-foot three-dollar bills carrying Nixon's picture.

The agent's incredible justification, as attested by a copy of the receipt, was that they were counterfeit "foreign" currency. About the same time, another agent grabbed off a bill in a Salt Lake City shop, charging it resembled U.S. currency.

The poster-sized Nixon bills even in this day of the inflated dollar, have no resemblance to real cash. They are printed on one side only and signed by "Havaflower, Treasurer of the Secretaries." Their maker, Gemini Rising, Inc., is clearly identified.

Yet the humorless Secret Service agents charged that the Louisville shop had violated federal laws carrying a $5,000 fine and five years in jail.

After we began investigating the seizures of the Nixon bills, the Louisville U.S. attorney's office and the Secret Service began pointing fingers at each other. Finally, the Secret Service in Washington admitted their case had no more value than the phony three-dollar bills.

"We do not regard them as a violation," conceded a spokesman. He denied the confiscations were carried out to harass those who make fun of the President.

Double Standards at the IRS

A Little Light Would Help!

On the Right

Not Entitled to God's Help

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat, in a saucy editorial entitled The Planet of the Tapes, made light of the New York Times' ponderous concern over cosmic difficulties suggesting that there was plenty going on in New York to inveigh against. Indeed that is the case, and the news is not merely infuriating, but deeply sad.

Last week in New York the firemen actually struck — literally refused to come to work. Oh yes, there was a complaint, and I do not pass judgment on it: let us assume that the firemen were indisputably correct, measured by any standard, in their demands against those who were negotiating in behalf of the city. Still, they went on strike. It lasted only a few hours, as it happened, and during those few hours a amateur city officials wrestled with a few fires — and the city capitulated.

It is not expected that any judgment by the courts will cost the firemen a nickel. Meanwhile, having struck for the first time in history, they discovered the joyous leverage exercised by the striker critically situated. It is nothing less than life and death that he has the power over. It makes no difference that the strike is illegal. It makes no difference that firemen, like policemen, are required to take a pledge upon entering the service, that they will not strike under any circumstances.

Meanwhile, a strike had begun against the city's hospitals. Twelve years ago, the hospitals were organized. The unionization of hospital workers had been proscribed by law, but under the pressure of a strike, the law was changed to permit the hospitals to organize. As a condition of unionization, it was written into the contract that no strikes would be resorted to under any circumstances. Like the firemen, the hospital workers struck without consideration of the word they had given, and the story unfolds.

At Lenox Hill Hospital — I cite it as presumably typical — the mood is fiercely ugly. Having begun by defying the substantive law, the strikers proceeded to defy the procedural law; pickets surrounded the hospital so tightly as effectively to bar access to the hospital to anyone not protected by a phalanx of policemen. And the police are acting with great discretion. They appear in force only when the time comes to move through a supply truck with food and medical supplies for the 600 patients at Lenox Hill. The police do not bestir themselves to protect individuals who seek to walk through the picket lines, and the two ambulances of the hospital are immobilized.

The reason for the special tension is racial. The strikers are predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican, and the picketing force is strongly augmented by what would appear to be free lance toughs who specialize in the creation of racial odium. Ironically, there are no economic differences between the hospitals and the strikers. The strikers want a 7.5 per cent raise, and the hospitals are willing to give it. But the Cost of Living Council has ruled that hospitals may not break away from the national pattern of 5.5 per cent maintained under Phase IV of Mr. Nixon's wretched price control program. The hospital's management cannot risk defying the federal regulation. To do so, for Lenox Hill, would be to risk up to four million dollars in fines.

Meanwhile — an excruciating irony — the strikers are being paid their salary. The management of Lenox Hill reasons that under the contract it is nowhere specified that for failure to report to duty because of a strike, the workers forfeit the two weeks pay they are entitled to for failure to report to duty on account of sickness or family emergency or whatever. Since strikes are prohibited, the contract for obvious reasons makes no mention of them; that much is logical.

Thus does it go in New York City these days. It is at such a moment as this that one truly wonders whether American society has reached that point of self-contempt that argues against the possibility of freedom surviving. That there are grown men willing if necessary to let women and children go up in smoke rather than help them; or sick people die for lack of medication rather than let the supplies get through. That there are men who call themselves public officials and fail to rouse the city to resonant, conclusive protest. These are the acid moments of democratic life in America when you find yourself thinking: whatever happens to us, we cannot, in good conscience, ask the help of Providence. We are not entitled to it.

Energy Economy

The energy shortage is so multifaceted as to be bewildering but out of the critical situation emerges a picture that is discouraging from every angle.

The United States and in fact most of the world's industrial nations are concerned by the production cutbacks in the Arab states but even before the Mideast war which triggered the boycott, a very substantial shortage loomed in this country.

President Nixon outlined a comprehensive and far-reaching conservation program designed to counter the crisis, involving a series of steps by the government plus voluntary efforts by Americans. But it will be a long time before the critical point passes.

Up to this point few Americans have suffered because of the lack of fuel and few have shown any awareness of the need to conserve.

The highways are as crowded as they ever were and 70-mile-per-hour speeders are just as numerous but as the problem expands and cold weather approaches it is plain that Americans will have to economize or suffer the consequences.

John A. Love, the White House director of the Energy Policy Office, was interviewed recently and his realistic observations should be taken to heart by all of us.

He feared brownouts, if not blackouts, if the Arab boycott continued and if Americans failed to take steps to conserve energy. The weather, of course, is one obvious variable but at best he expected we would be forced to use a good portion of our reserve supplies to keep homes heated, to keep wheels of industry turning and to keep cars moving.

He also predicted New England would be among the sections of the country hardest hit by shortages.

The lack of fuel dramatizes the problem of what to do about antipollution regulations. Chances are the rules will be relaxed by Washington.

But this is only one of the necessary steps.

Homeowners, too, must cooperate by lowering their thermostats and car owners must learn to drive less and at slower speeds as Gov. Rockefeller has directed on the Thruway.

Meanwhile, for selfish as well as humanitarian reasons we can only hope that the crisis will ease in the Mideast and that normal oil production will be resumed.

The one bright spot in the dismal picture is the revelation that the Treasury Department is considering an excise tax on cars burning too much gas.

Drivers have been unhappy as they watched the price of gasoline mount penny by penny but they haven't indulged in any violent protest. But there will be howls from coast to coast if the government follows through with its proposal to tax cars that do not get 20 miles a gallon.

Now, it is felt, the proposed taxes of up to $300 per car failing to comply with the mileage standards will speed the conversion to smaller cars with estimated fuel savings of 1,000,000 gallons daily.

So some good could come from the shortage after all. But that's for the future. For the present, everyone has to pitch in and do his part to conserve. No time like now, for example—what's your thermostat set at?

Apartment Funds

In addition to 100,000 apartment units being processed, and now in the advanced stages, the Nixon administration has just announced that it would approve funding for nearly 70,000 additional apartments. Most of the new units will be provided under the so-called Section 236 mortgage-interest subsidy program, according to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington.

These 170,000 new apartment units will be an enormous help to home-hungry newlyweds or families living in sub-standard housing in ghetto neighborhoods. The administration has been working to phase out existing subsidized-housing programs, in favor of a new "housing-allowance" approach—direct cash grants to lower-income families to enable them to compete for housing in the existing market. But until this latter system is in full operation, housing officials have been urged by the President to continue providing some measure of housing in a modified way.

Various cities, with existing state and civic projects already underway, will apparently be using these new-apartment funds to bring down rents in these projects—in one case, New York City, from $90 a room to $55 a room. In other projects, where present federal aid is now operating, this new help means that rents could come down to $25 a room a month.

Choosing a Vice President With Care

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—One good thing that can come out of all this grisly business here is some hard thinking about how we choose our Vice Presidents. This has been a form of political Russian roulette, with luck more often than not against the first party pulling the trigger.

"Now if you were to become President..." That is the preamble to many of the questions asked of Rep. Gerald R. Ford during his confirmation hearing before the Senate Rules Committee.

You can't help wondering if that type of question was put to Spiro Agnew when, to the surprise of practically everyone, Richard Nixon pulled his name out of his hat to be his No. 2. The investigation into Agnew's background, to say nothing of his qualifications, must surely have been perfunctory to have missed so much that was developed during the criminal investigation that ended with his departure.

Last year was a bad vintage year for Vice Presidents. Sen. George McGovern began by picking Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri (Tom who?) to run with him on the Democratic ticket. The choice seems to have been asked whether he had any skeletons in his closet. After first declaring he was for him 1,000 per cent when rumors circulated of Eagleton's illness, McGovern dropped him from the ticket. The second choice was Sargent Shriver, a loyal Democrat who happened to be last man out of the hall.

The selection of Harry Truman to run with Franklin Roosevelt on the fourth-term ticket in 1944 could not have been more casual or more politically dictated. Roosevelt had made himself into Mr. Win-the-War and he didn't bother to come to the Democratic convention in Chicago. Although he was in touch with his political lieutenant, Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis, the Democratic chairman, by telephone, Hannegan was the master manipulator on the spot.

Supposedly the President had given the chairman a list of three or four potential Vice Presidents. Included was the name of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. But no one ever saw the list, and under Hannegan's management the convention stamped for Truman, overwhelming the third-term Vice President, Henry A. Wallace, whose followers had put on a massive demonstration.

Nine months later Roosevelt was dead and Truman was President of the United States. Derided as an accidental President and a former Kansas City haberdasher who couldn't even run a clothing store, Truman's approval rating sank to an all-time low of 23.

But doggedly he stuck to the job, trusting foreign policy to his Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and he began to come back with the realization that he was a better President than we were entitled to, given the grab bag of his selection. Against the smug prophecies of all of us, he won re-election in 1948, defeating Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The hope must be that if Representative Ford should become President he will be another Truman. That certainly will be the buildup — the strong, modest man from Grand Rapids ready to measure up to the terrible responsibility of the most-demanding office in the world.

It should be noted, however, that there are significant differences. Truman had served during World War II as the strong chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee. That committee by pounding on government bureaucrats and war contractors saved hundreds of millions of dollars. If only because the Congresses he has served in have with one exception been controlled by the Democrats Ford has no such achievement in this record.

Eight times in our history Vice Presidents have inherited the office of President. In two instances — with the assassination of Abraham Lincoln as the Civil War was ending and with the death of Roosevelt when the massive problems growing out of World War II called for experience and wisdom — this came at moments of grave crisis.

Surely, never again can a weary political convention allow the Presidential candidate to pick an unknown, or a comparative unknown, out of the hat. The chilling thought that at any point during the past four and a half years Spiro Agnew with his corruption-stained history might have been the ninth Vice President to inherit the Presidency must never be forgotten.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock Market prices were mixed near opening today and analysts said the selling wave triggered by the energy situation appeared to be slowing down.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which dropped more than 34 points in the last two sessions, was down a fraction in early trading, and advancing issues narrowly held declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Volume leader on the Big Board in early trading was Carrier Corp., off 1/4 at 20, followed by Atlantic Richfield unchanged at 104 1/2. Monroe Auto Equipment gave up 1/2 at 17; Wallace-Murray lost 1/4 at 10 1/4; and RCA dropped 1/2 at 22.

Resignation

The Ontario Board of Education, at a special meeting Monday night, accepted the resignation of high school English teacher Donald Loprieno, effective Dec. 9. Dr. Frank M. Marlow, Superintendent of Schools, said Monday's meeting was called specifically to act on the resignation, and to give the school board ample time to find a replacement before Loprieno leaves on Dec. 9.

Poland Seeking to Open Relationship in Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The achieve formal relations with the Vatican by Poland's Foreign Minister after his visit to the Papacy's 50-minute talk Monday with first diplomatic representative Pope Paul VI. "I think one can openly say that this visit has an historic significance."

"We in Warsaw would like to

It was the first time that a member of Warsaw's Communist government had come to the Vatican.

For years the Warsaw government kept in step with the Kremlin in harassing churchmen, imprisoning many and denying them permission to travel to the Vatican or anywhere else abroad.

A thaw in Church-state relations developed, however, and in June of last year Pope Paul formally recognized as Polish the German territories Poland annexed after World War II. Four months later Kasimir Papee, the Polish government-in-exile's "charge d'affaires" to the Vatican, quit the Rome villa he had maintained as an embassy for the exiled group in London, and last June Olaszowski announced at the United Nations that his government wanted to establish diplomatic relations with the Holy See.

Warsaw has a major stake in "normalizing" relations with the papacy. Despite decades of rule by atheist Marxists, Polish citizens have clung to Catholicism, the Pope and the authority of their bishops. The church claims allegiance of more than 90 per cent of Poland's 34 million people, and the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano wrote recently that about 80 per cent of those under 18 attend religious classes in parishes. Unlike the situation in most other countries, the number of priests and seminarians in Poland is increasing, Osservatore reported. Good relations with the Vatican would enhance the government's image before the Catholic population. It might even mute some of the criticism from the Polish bishops, led by fiery Stefan Cardinal Wysinski, who often uses the pulpit to blast Communist policies.

Investigation Is Asked on City Fires

KINGSTON — Firemen moved the mattress and box spring from the building and doused the blaze, with no fire damage reported to the apartment itself.

Then, at 10:34 p.m., firefighters were called to 625 Delaware Avenue, where bedding removed from 612 Delaware Avenue was found to be burning on the lawn. Firemen again doused the burning bedding and requested an investigation. Both fires were of undetermined origin, firemen said.

State Police Arrest Three

Three men were arrested by Ellenville State Police Monday morning and charged in connection with the alleged abduction and rape of a 17-year-old New York City girl.

Police said the men had brought the girl to an Ellenville hotel early Monday from New York City, but that she escaped and called police when they fell asleep at about 8:15 a.m. All three men, identified as Luis Ortiz, 24, of Puerto Rico and Chicago, Ill., Enrique Alva, 19, of Ellenville and Lima, Peru, and Frank Duran, 23, of Ellenville and Lima, Peru, were charged with unlawful imprisonment in the first degree. Ortiz was additionally charged with rape in the first degree.

Arraigned before Wawarsing Town Justice Joseph Polonsky, Ortiz and Alva were confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $14,000 bail. Duran was confined in lieu of $4,000 bail. All are scheduled to reappear in court Nov. 15.

Area Police Arrest Two

KINGSTON — allegedly an escapee from Florida State Prison where he was serving time on burglary and possession of stolen property charges.

Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Mitchell was confined in Ulster County Jail without bail pending further court proceedings. Detectives arrested John A. Sloane, 21, of 45 Gage Street on a charge of third degree possession of stolen property after he was found to allegedly have a television reportedly taken in a residential burglary Oct. 7. The television, valued at $99, was reported taken from the residence of Shirley Thomasson, 9 Susan Street. Woodstock Constables charged John H. Mitchell, 24, (no address), with first degree possession of stolen property after he was apprehended in a vehicle reported stolen previously from Plattsburgh. Authorities said Mitchell is

New Cracks in Rocket May Scrap Skylab Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Skylab Program Director William C. Schneider says he hopes to set a new launch date for Skylab 3 after checking on new cracks in the Saturn 1B booster rocket.

Schneider said he hopes to reach the decision late today.

The astronauts, Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson, were to fly here from the Space Center at Houston to participate in the decision-making conference.

They originally were to have started their 85-day mission last Saturday, rocketing up for the third and final visit to the Skylab station. That was postponed until Thursday after hairline cracks were discovered in all eight stabilizer fins at the base of the rocket.

These had to be replaced to prevent possible breakup of the rocket in flight.

During a check Monday, additional cracks were found in seven of eight support beams in a circular band that connects the first and second stages of the Saturn 1B.

Officials called off the shot until at least Friday, but Schneider said chances of a launch on that date "are iffy at best."

"There is a feeling by some technical experts that we could launch with these newly discovered cracks and there would be no harm to the rocket," the program director said.

He added this is being evaluated, "and by postponing we are giving ourselves at least 24 hours to examine other areas that might give us cause for concern. We'll assess and then determine if we have to delay for one day or five days or 10 days or whether we have to roll back to the assembly building."

If the Saturn 1B has to be moved back to the hangar for major repairs or replacement, the delay could be a month or more.

Schneider said the cracks on the support beams, like those on the fins, range between an inch and 2½ inches long.

It is believed they were caused by a combination of salt air corrosion and stresses placed on the rocket during testing.

Officials said that metal fatigue might be a factor because of the eight-year-old age of the rocket.

Nixon's Peace Performance Rates High in Harris Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest Louis Harris poll gives President Nixon a 58 per cent rating for good to excellent performance in working for world peace but only a 32 per cent positive rating for the over-all job he is doing as President.

Results of the survey, released Monday, showed that while 32 per cent of those polled rated Nixon's over-all performance as good to excellent, 64 per cent said it was fair to poor. The remaining 4 per cent were undecided.

A year ago, the Harris poll reported Nixon was rated 9 per cent good-to-excellent, 40 per cent fair-to-poor and 1 per cent not sure on his performance in the White House.

The latest survey, based on a telephone poll of 1,007 households nationwide Oct. 26-29, indicated that Nixon received substantial credit for his handling of the recent Middle East crisis.

Harris said the President's ratings on working for world peace were 58 per cent good-to-excellent, 37 per cent fair-to-poor and 5 per cent unsure.

On his television speeches and press conferences, Nixon received a 65-30 per cent negative rating. This compared with the Presidents' 50-45 per cent positive rating on TV appearances last February.

Regarding Nixon's handling of crime and the maintenance of law and order, the October survey showed: 21 per cent good-to-excellent, 71 per cent fair-to-poor and 8 per cent unsure.

Sweet Adelines List Upcoming Agendas

A busy season is being planned by members of Colonial City Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc.

The Chapter will provide the entertainment for the annual Esopus Fire Department dinner scheduled for this evening. Other upcoming events include participation at the Music School to be held in Portchester on January 17-18, 1974. In March, 1974, the group will take part in the annual Chorus Competition at the Hotel Commodore in New York City. Plans are also in progress for a spring show of Barbershop Harmony, tentatively set for May 11, 1974.

Six members from the Chapter recently motored to Washington, D.C., for the 1973 International Competition of Sweet Adelines, Inc. Those attending were Barbara Bondar, Evelyn Roberts, Nancy Bishopp, Sherry Every, Dot Ridgeway, and Shirley Pleu.

At the Washington Hilton Hotel's Grand Ballroom, the members, along with 4600 other Sweet Adelines, witnessed the results of the 27th International Quartet and Chorus Competition. The Racine, Wisconsin, Chapter became International Chorus Champions and The Tiffanys became the 1973 Queens of Harmony in the Quartet Competition. Sweet Adelines from every region in the nation as well as Canada and England attended.

With the Christmas season just around the corner, the Chapter is available for singing for area organizations and holiday parties. Information may be had by contacting Mary Otto or Jennie Carpino, both of Kingston.

The Chorus is under the direction of Barbara Bondar. New members are always welcome. Those interested are invited to attend any Tuesday evening meeting at 8 o'clock at St. James United Methodist Church, Kingston, or contact Austy DuFresne of Woodstock.

Do-C-Do Club Squaring Up Saturday at 8 P.M.

The Do-C-Do Western Square Dance Club of Poughkeepsie will be squaring up with guest caller, Red Bates, of Hampden, Mass., Saturday at 8 to 11 p.m. at Hagan Spackenkil school in Poughkeepsie.

Area square dancers are invited.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH C. MIKESH JR. of 100 Wurts Street, Kingston, celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary recently at a surprise dinner-party given in Holiday Inn by their children. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Mikesh, III, West Hurley; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mikesh, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. James Mikesh, Port Ewen; Kenneth Mikesh, Kingston; Timothy Mikesh, Miss Mary Mikesh and Kevin Mikesh, who reside at home. Also attending were Mrs. Suzanne Mikesh and Mrs. Clara Van Eiten, mothers of the guests of honor. (Freeman photo by Johnson)

Hostess' Invitation Impossible to Swallow

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have socialized with the same group of married couples for about 30 years. Recently one of the women called to invite my daughter, son in law, and me to a supper at her home. She made it a point NOT to mention my husband, so I mentioned him. She said, "Well, maybe Louis had better not come because a few of the women have told me that it spoils their appetites to watch him eat." (My husband has Parkinson's disease and he shakes a lot, but I always help him when he eats.)

I told this woman that since she is the hostess she can invite anyone she wants to her home, and then I asked her which women she had reference to.

Of course she wouldn't tell me, so I stayed home, and so did my daughter and son in law.

I have decided to wash my hands of that whole group. Do you think I am wrong?

MRS. L. S.
DEAR MRS. S.: I'd have wash my hands of the hostess, but until I learned who (if any others) shared her views, I wouldn't have written off the entire group.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law and I have never gotten along. There have been bitter feelings between us for as long as I can remember. We are now at the point where we don't see each other at all. My husband goes along with this arrangement because he also has been hurt by her.

My problem — or our problem: How do I explain to my children that they never see their grandmother because three adults can't sit down and work out their problems, and no one wants to make the first move?

PARTLY GUILTY
DEAR PARTLY: It would be far easier for YOU to make the first move than to try to explain it to your children. Your signature as well as your obvious desire to solve the problem shows you to be an intelligent and reasonable woman. Life is short. Make it sweet.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please print an open letter to some friends of ours? I'm sure it could apply to many of your readers:

DEAR BOB AND RUTH: (Not your real names.)

I write this out of concern for your health and my own. You impressed us as being fun-loving, intelligent people who would not intentionally hurt anybody. But you were both apparently unaware that your smoke was extremely irritating to me. I am allergic to tobacco smoke. This morning I have a raw throat and irritated sinuses, which will take several days to clear up.

If you had asked politely: "Does anybody mind if we smoke?" I would have said: "Yes, I'm sorry, but I'm allergic to tobacco smoke. Thank you for asking."

But you gave me no such opportunity. So I had only three choices: To leave, to stay and suffer (which I did), or to make an issue of it by pointing out your thoughtlessness in the presence of others.

I did not want to embarrass you — or the Smiths, since it was their party, so I suffered silently and hoped you would eventually notice that I was trying desperately to wave away the smoke and escape its poisonous effects.

Perhaps the next time you are with nonsmokers — whether they call attention to their discomfort or not — you will be more considerate.

Please believe me when I say that my husband and I found you a delightful couple with whom we would be happy to share a smokeless evening.

DEAR K. J. G.: If those are your real initials, you've sent up some effective smoke signals.

Turkey Prices

Consumers should find the meat price and supply situation substantially the same as it was last week, according to the Consumer and Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. However, all classes of meat will have features that will make it worthwhile to shop around.

With Thanksgiving only days away, turkeys will be the big buy this week, with sales ranging from 59 cents to 89 cents, depending on size and grade. Other poultry features will be roasting chickens from 49 cents to 79 cents, whole broilers at 49 cents, whole fryers from 37 cents, to 39 cents, ducks from 89 cents to 99 cents, and geese from 99 cents to $1.19.

Among the economical beef buys to look for are frankfurters from 79 cents to 99 cents, shoulder roast at 89 cents, chuck steak from 69 cents to 89 cents, and ground beef at 99 cents. Other cuts on sale will be sirloin steak at $1.59, cube steak at $1.49, rib steak from $1.45 to $1.59, standing rib roast from $1.19 to $1.49, and boneless chuck at $1.19.

In the pork line, look for sales on spareribs from 89 cents to 99 cents, pork chops $1.09 to $1.19, and bacon in the $1.19 to $1.39 range.

Lamb and veal are not likely to be featured.

25th Anniversary For Sawkill Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Maggiore of Sawkill Road, Kingston, were guests of honor recently at a surprise party given by their children in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. The party took place at Ramada Inn, Kingston.

Married Oct. 17, 1948 in St. Peter's Church by the Rev. Henry Herdegen, now deceased, they were attended by Mrs. Betty Charnello, sister of the bride, and the late Vincent Maggiore Jr., brother of the bridegroom. The couple has three children: Cathy, wife of Roger Lindhurst of Sawkill Road, Kingston; Vincent and Mary Rose Maggiore, both at home.

They also have two grandchildren, Michelle Marie and Lori Anne Lindhurst. Mrs. Maggiore is employed by Sears Roebuck and Company, Kingston. Her husband works for Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.

Approximately 85 relatives and friends attended the gala.

THANKSGIVING

November 22, 1973 — 12 noon 'til 9 p.m.

We Cherish The Legacy From Our Forefathers

The Winter of 1620 marked the arrival of the first Pilgrims. They were met with the hardships of a bitter New England winter.

With Spring came the knowledge of productive farming. Encouraged, taught by native Indians, they sowed their first corn crop.

In honor of a fruitful year, a day of Thanksgiving was proclaimed—to show gratitude for their blessings.

It's the New York giant.

A half-gallon of Seagram's 7 saves you more than just money.

It saves you space, because it's compact. And it saves you from running out as often.

Yet it pours as easily as a well-balanced pitcher. There's even a non-spilling spout.

It's a very friendly giant indeed. Especially for this friendly time of year.

Kingston Dog Problem Causes Council Concern

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON The Kingston Common Council, concerned over dogs and dogcatchers, will meet with city officials to discuss the situation.

Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-Tenth Ward) touched off a discussion at Tuesday night's meeting, saying the stray dog situation and poor work on the part of the dogcatcher were the source of many complaints to councilmen.

"If people could see the cost of a dog warden and the number of dogs picked up, they'd raise the roof of City Hall," Sinsabaugh said.

At his request, City Clerk Louis DeCicco read a report showing that between September 24 and October 22 the warden had picked up two cats, one opossum, and 12 dogs, three of which were dead on arrival at the pound.

Sinsabaugh's remarks were seconded by Councilman Edward J. Roux (R-Ninth Ward), Joseph R. McGrane (D-Second Ward), and Majority Leader Peter Mancuso, (D-Twelfth Ward), all of whom said they receive numerous complaints about stray dogs and poor warden service.

The council will meet in the conference room at City Hall on Tuesday, Nov. 20, beginning at 7:30 p. m. with Mayor Francis R. Koenig, Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, and City Judge Hubert A. Richter, whose presence was requested by Mancuso to explain why a $25 fine against dog ordinance violators is seldom levied.

The Council referred to the Laws and Rules Committee a resolution by Minority Leader Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward), calling for creation of a permanent, bipartisan City Operations Committee with investigative powers over city operations and to oversee the operations of all other council committees.

Citing what he called "crisis administration," Smith said the Council has no opportunity to study many matters until they are brought up at meetings.

"I would like to become more involved in the mayor's budget," he said when asked for an example of the committee's function. "Not one alderman really knows what's in it and the public hearing in late December doesn't give us much time to go over it."

The board unanimously passed a resolution by Mancuso approving the adoption of state wide daylight savings time during the energy emergency. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to state and federal authorities.

The board filed without comment Koenig's appointment of 15 persons to the city's Bicentennial Commission. The list included Edward Arace, Ambrose J. Boyd, Katherine Caruso, Joseph Lawson, Edward Levine, Celeste Porter, John Weber, Harry Rigby, William Ryland, Margaret Hanstein, Robert Lloyd, Michael Pagliaro, Henry Halterman, John Mayone, and William Schiff.

The board authorized payment of a $900 claim to John Buckman of East Chester Street, who had asked for $1,500 in damages for water that had flooded his vegetable garden. Street for damages of $55,000 and her husband Ronald Roux, although voting with the majority to pay, said he hoped for his wife, and $10,000 for the case doesn't lead to others alleged injuries to their son a Department of Public Works in truck parked on Ulster Landing Road in the Town of Ulster and a car operated by William Dickerson of 16 Sherry Lane has resulted in filing of damage claims of $100,000 for Dickerson, $45,000 for Mark Guido of 180 Sherry Lane and Vincent R. Guido, his father, who asks $15,000. They were passengers in Dickerson's car.

Saugerties School Board Rejects Auditor's Report

SAUGERTIES district pupils, about the difference in figures between Almqvist's estimates of savings from elimination of bus runs and those submitted by School Transit.

In July, one of the items eliminated from the twice-defeated school budget was late bus runs on Mondays and Fridays. Almqvist had estimated that the move would save the district about $20,000, but the figure submitted by School Transit was $6,500. Almqvist was asked to find out what caused the discrepancy between the two figures and report back to the board.

Robert Francello, board president, was authorized to sign tentative contracts with Ulster County BOCES for pupil services during the coming school year. The contracts involve sending 75 Saugerties high school students to BOCES vocational classes. Saugerties participation in cooperative bids for school lunch bread, data processing services for a school census, grading, student scheduling, and senior seminar Exact costs to the district for BOCES services will not be available until January 25, 1974, when final contracts are signed, but Francello estimated costs as being approximately the same as those contracted for this year.

The high school band, led by David Keehn, was given permission to travel to Quebec City, Quebec, February 14-18 to perform in that city's Winter Carnival parade and Snow Festival. Room and board will be furnished for band members while there.

The board voted to reduce the price of milk to six cents for a half pint after learning that the Department of Agriculture had resumed a milk subsidy of four cents per half pint for school lunch programs. Milk had been priced at 10 cents per half pint.

Robert Randall appeared before the board to request that the district either spend money to repair the former Malden Elementary School or else sell it. Randall, who lives nearby, said the shingles are being blown from the roof during windstorm and that many of the windows are broken in the building, which was abandoned when the district centralized.

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools, reported that the state Education Department had rejected the district's request for a Superintendent's Conference Day, on Nov. 15, when elementary schools would have been closed for teacher-parent conferences. The board on his recommendation voted to apply instead for two half days off on Nov. 30 and Dec. 7.

The board voted Christine Desmond, a junior high school mathematics teacher, a four year leave of absence to enter military service and named Janice Bucci to replace her. The board also accepted "with regret" the retirement of Leon McLaughlin, senior high school driver education teacher, effective January 28, and Selden Hadley, senior high school language teacher, effective also on January 28. Cosmo Sasso, attendance teacher, was granted permanent tenure.

Robert Randall appeared before the board to request that the district either spend money to repair the former Malden Elementary School or else sell it. Randall, who lives nearby, said the shingles are being

Land Problems Discussed

STAMFORD Herbert Hekler, director of the Ulster County Planning Board, told members of the Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills recently that poorly controlled subdivisions are one of the most pressing land use problems facing the region.

Hekler and seven other planning leaders from the seven county Catskill region met with the Commission staff at the Stamford headquarters recently. The meeting was just one in a series of sessions Commission members have conducted as they collect information for their study on the Catskill region.

Addressing commission members, Hekler said, "Development of large tracts is not nearly as troublesome as the one and two house at a time projects. These are often built and occupied before any health or environmental authorities know about it. In towns without subdivision regulations, many homes are erected in remote areas without any thought of future water supply or sewage disposal problems or cumulative degrading effects on the environment."

Hekler continued, "It's nearly impossible to trace this type of development in unregulated areas. Big developers submit plans before starting projects, but individuals don't unless the town requires building permits. We know that Ulster County has had 6,000 lots subdivided in the last five years. There's no way of telling how many were subdivided without our knowledge."

David Siebert, director of the Sullivan County Planning Board, also addressed the Commission. He said, "We're being nickel and dimed to death in these unregulated areas. Local governments should consider this problem. Most of them don't think it's serious. But over the long run, the public health and environmental problem can be even more serious than for large developments."

All of the planners suggested that the Commission consider recommending a revision in the Public Health Law relating to subdivisions. At present, the law requires Health Department approval of a subdivision into four or more parcels.

The Commission also has announced that the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will begin shortly a soil-use study of the Catskill region. The project will culminate in up-to-date soil maps for the seven county region, with preliminary soil data available for some areas by December. The complete report, with recommendations and soil maps, will be finished by July, 1974.

The Commission has been directed by the New York State Legislature to conduct a study into all aspects of life in the Catskill region, including economy, transportation, environment and social and entertainment opportunities. The Commission is to issue a preliminary report in March, 1974; its final report is due in March, 1975.

Kirby Peake of Bronxville is chairman of the Commission; Harold E. Finkle of Kingston is one of the nine members.

YMCA Swim Team Defeats Rockland for First Win

KINGSTON — Kingston YMCA's swim team rebounded from an opening meet loss to trounce the Rockland Y, 297-179. The Kingston girls outscored their opponents by 48 points.

Kyle McCormick and Denise Zimmerman each scored triples for the winners. Competing in the boys 10-under class, McCormick was first in the 100-yard individual medley (1:24.4), 50-yard backstroke (:39.4) and 50-yard butterfly (:41).

Miss Zimmerman led the girls field in the 100 individual medley in 1:15.3, 100-yard freestyle (1:07.1) and 100-yard backstroke (1:20.6).

Bob Winrow also picked up a triple in the boys 15-17 division with a first in the 200-yard individual medley (2:14.8), 100-yard free style (56.6) 100-yard breaststroke (1:08.4).

Kelly McCormick doubled in the 200-yard individual medley in girls 13-14 in 2:35.9; and the 100-yard freestyle in 1:04.6.

There were three other double winners. Charles Mason, boys 8-up, placed first in the 25-yard breaststroke in :20.8 and 25-yard freestyle in 20 seconds flat. Carol Murphy, 8-under girls, led the 25 freestyle (1:16.7) and 25-yard breaststroke in :23.1.

Scott Sauer won the boys 8-up 25-yard backstroke in :20.5 and 25 freestyle in :17.5.

Rube Samuelson Dies

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — R. C. "Rube" Samuelson, the former blind sports editor of the Pasadena Star-News who became endeared to the nation's sports writers as "Mr. Rose Bowl," died Monday night at Huntington Memorial Hospital.

Samuelson, 72, entered the hospital last week after suffering a stroke. The popular sports writer joined the Star-News in 1929 and attended every Rose Bowl game until he retired from the paper in 1963, two years after he went blind.

Besides his column in the Pasadena paper called "Rube-Barbs," Samuelson wrote other columns which appeared in such newspapers and magazines as the San Francisco Chronicle, Chicago Tribune, Minneapolis Star, the Sporting News, Sports Illustrated, Sports Magazine and Parade Magazine.

He served as president of the Football Writers Association of America in 1954 and also was a director of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association. He authored one book, "The Rose Bowl Game," in 1951.

Born in Minneapolis, Minn., Samuelson grew up in Fresno, Calif., and attended the University of California at Berkeley.

He leaves his widow, Doris, and two sons, James and Gary. Memorial services were scheduled for Friday at Pasadena Presbyterian Church.

Alpha Cement Captures B Division TFL Title

SAUGERTIES — Alpha Cement Company reigns as champion of the B Division of the SAA Touch Football League, after its 12-0 triumph over Holy Cross in the second game of a three-way playoff. The Cementmakers overpowered Gunjah Warriors, 33-13, in first round play.

Holy Cross had been awarded a first round bye because it had scored more points than the other finalists. Quarterback Les Hildebrandt figured in both Alpha touchdowns, hitting Roger Steltz with a one-yard pass in the second quarter and running 23 yards with a keeper in the third period.

Holy Cross was able to get deep into Alpha territory only once during the game and that bid was stopped by a Hal Johnson pass interception. Hildebrandt threw for four touchdowns passes and caught a fifth against the Warriors. He scored on a 39-yard toss from Hal Johnson, then hit Craig Wolsen from 7 and 20 yards and Roger Steltz from 4 and 25 yards.

Pete, McAdoo In Scoring Fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Atlanta's Pete Maravich and Buffalo's Bob McAdoo are waging a close early battle for the National Basketball Association scoring championship with 1972-73 champion Nate Archibald not even in the top 20.

Figures released by the NBA today show Maravich has scored 438 points in 15 games for a 29.2 point-per-game average. McAdoo ranks second with 437 points in 16 games for a 27.3 average.

Archibald, who has played only six games, has 136 points and a 22.7 average. The Kansas City-Omaha star, however, leads in field goal percentage with 48 of 80 for .600.

Line Made the Holes... Podolak Did the Rest

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — For the first time this season, the Kansas City Chiefs' offensive line was intact. It showed.

Ed Podolak rambled for 135 yards on 28 carries, missing his personal high by four yards. The 28 carries, however, eclipsed by one a 13-year-old team record set by Abner Hayes in 1960.

The result was a 19-7 Chiefs' victory Monday night over the Chicago Bears.

"I guarantee the offensive line had a great night," said Podolak, who also caught five passes for 37 yards. "There were some great holes out there."

Chided offensive guard Mo Moorman, who happened to overhear Podolak. "There had to be for someone as slow as you to get through."

Podolak continued. "The great thing about having big holes is you can work on the linebacker while you're in the hole. That can mean the difference between a three-yard run and an eight-yard run. The offensive line just did a great job of controlling the line of scrimmage."

Jan Stenerud kicked field goals of 47, 17, 43 and 42 yards, all in the first half, and Mike Livingston hooked up with Otis Taylor for a 24-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter.

That was only the Chiefs' 11th touchdown in nine games, but lifted them into a first-place tie with Oakland, both at 5-3-1, in the Western Division of the American Football Conference. Chicago's loss, dropping the Bears to 3-6, clinched the Central Division of the National Football Conference for unbeaten Minnesota.

The Kansas City defense held Chicago to only two first downs until near the end of the third quarter and sacked quarterback Bobby Douglass six times for 64 yards in losses.

"We did a super job defensively," said Kansas City Coach Hank Stram. "Anytime you can play against a guy like Douglass and contain him the way we did, you know you're doing the job."

A crowd of 70,664 turned out in 62-degree temperatures, but there were 7,587 no-shows for the nationally televised game that was not blacked out locally.

The Chiefs missed several scoring opportunities because of four turnovers, but yielded none in their own end of the field.

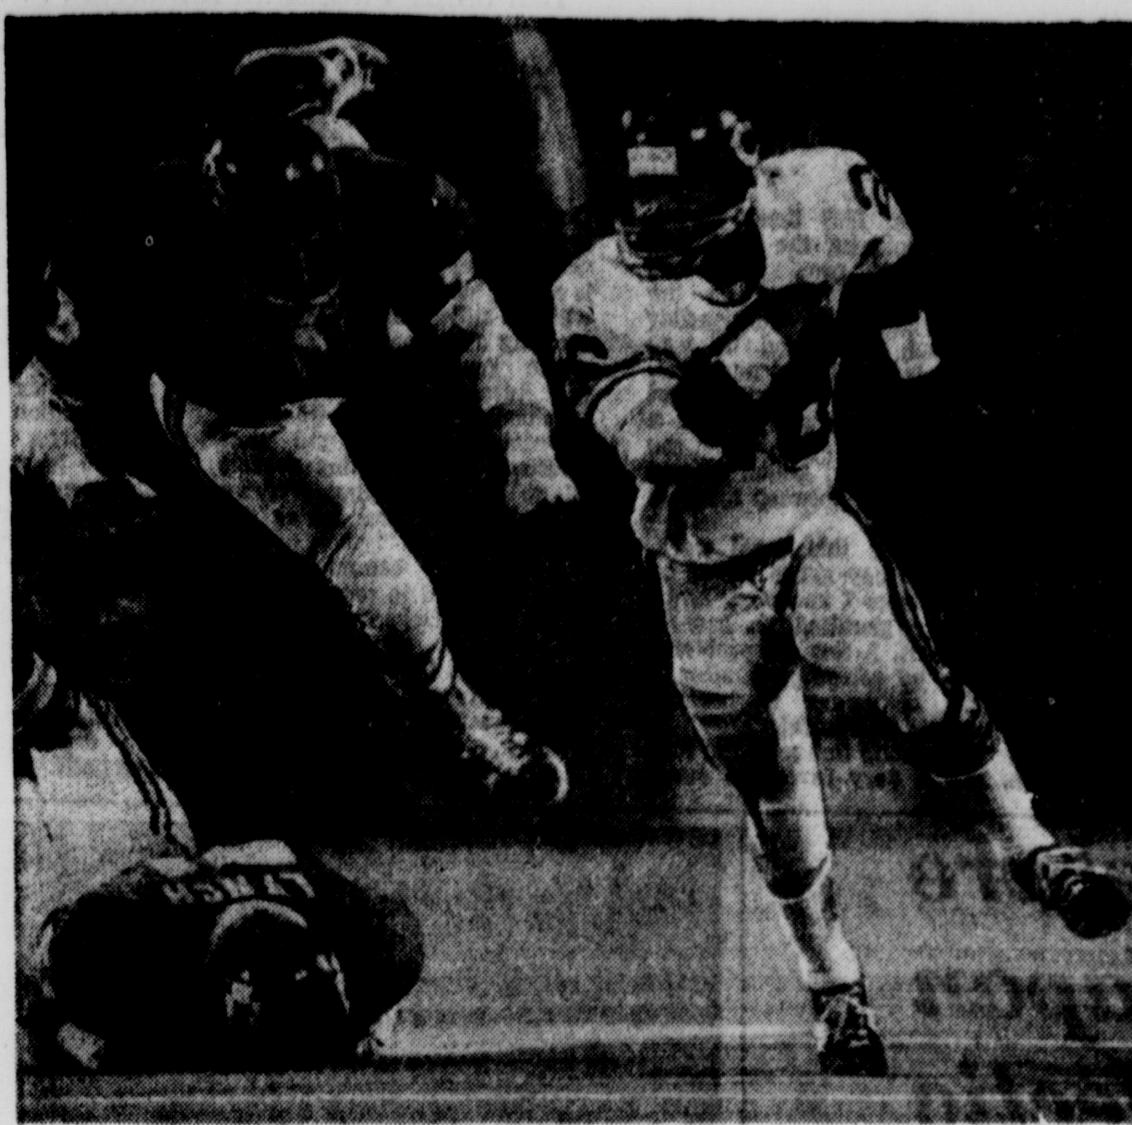

Chicago field-goal kicker Mirro Roder, for instance, did not have one three-point attempt.

Stenerud missed a 51-yarder in the fourth quarter that would have given him five for the night and tie a personal high. That one hit the crossbar.

But the one that killed the Bears came after time had run out in the first half. The Chiefs were attempting to line up for a 47-yarder by Stenerud as the final seconds ticked off. Just as the ball was about to be snapped, however, Chicago defensive end Mel Tom kicked the ball away from the center.

The Bears were charged with delay of game and Stenerud kicked a 42-yarder for a 12-0 halftime lead with no time left. Chicago Coach Abe Giron charged onto the field and argued with the officials all the way to the exit, but to no avail.

Gibron refused to complain about the officiating, however. "The officiating was great," he said after the game. "I'm not going to complain about that. I never heard of defensive delay of game. If there was delay by our team, he (the official) should have stopped the clock. As it turned out, it wasn't that big a play."

PURSUED — Bears' Carl Garrett (26) leaves a couple of KC Chiefs behind as he runs for a 40-yard gain in second half play Monday night. Chiefs' Bobby Bell (78) flies through the air as Jim Lynch (51) falls to the ground. A couple of plays later, Garrett carried from the 15-yard line for the Bears only TD. Kansas City won, 19-7. (UPI)

Ratings Nearly Identical

NEW YORK (UPI) — This week's United Press International Board of Coaches college football ratings released Monday are a near-carbon copy of last week's rankings.

With all seven top teams unbeaten, and facing weak opponents Saturday, the order is likely to undergo very few changes until Ohio State and Michigan meet on Nov. 24 and Alabama and Louisiana State collide on Thanksgiving Day.

Ohio State, which shut out Michigan State 35-0, was again the overwhelming No. 1 choice of the 35 coaches on the board, garnered 23 first-place votes and 335 points, with Alabama second, selected No. 1 on nine ballots and receiving 310 total points.

Oklahoma, all but wrapping up the Big Eight title by belting Missouri 31-3, repeated as the third team in the ratings, with two firsts and 261 points.

Michigan was again fourth with 246 points followed by Notre Dame, Penn State and Louisiana State. UCLA and Southern California, both vying for the Rose Bowl spot opposite either Ohio State or Michigan, were eighth and ninth respectively and Nebraska replaced Missouri as the No. 10 team.

Heading up the second 10 was Texas, which will likely host Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl and Texas Tech, runnerup in the Southwest Conference, was 12th.

Arizona State, Missouri, Miami of Ohio were 13, 14 and 15 with Arizona and Kansas tying for 17th and Tulane and Tennessee tying for the final spot.

Nebraska Returns

Nebraska returned to the Top Ten and UCLA moved into eighth place but the seven top teams — led by No. 1 Ohio State — held on to their rankings Monday in the weekly Associated Press college football poll.

The No. 1-ranked Buckeyes of Ohio State, on the heels of Saturday's 35-0 trouncing of Michigan State, received 35 first-place votes and 1,130 points from the 61 sports writers and broadcasters who cast ballots in this week's poll.

The Case of the Bogus Football

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders may think it was a joke, but Pittsburgh

Steelers vice president Dan Rooney wasn't laughing Monday when he informed the National Football League of reports that someone had slipped a bogus football into the Steelers-Raiders game Sunday.

Rooney, incensed over officiating in Pittsburgh's 17-9 victory at Oakland, told NFL officials' supervisor Art McNally his players complained that an under-inflated football was put into the game during a Steelers field goal try by Roy Gerela.

Rooney also complained that the Raider offensive linemen had slicked their jerseys with Vaseline to impede the pass rush of Pittsburgh's front four, and he asked that McNally check into possible improprities involving the scoreboard clock operation late in the first half.

A spokesman for the Raiders initially tossed it all off as a joke, explaining that several Oakland players had planned welcome home pranks for ex-Raider Tom Keating, who had been traded to Pittsburgh in the pre-season.

The spokesman later said all the charges were "ridiculous." Rooney reportedly was enraged when the Raiders got off a 40-yard field goal by George Blanda with one second remaining in the half. He was reported to have said the clock should have run out on the previous play.

Gerela and Blanda both had placekicking difficulties in the hotly contested game, which produced a total of 21 penalties missed three attempts on the muddy turf.

The Steelers Raiders game has become a sharp rivalry since Pittsburgh defeated Oakland last season in an American Football Conference playoff which produced an even more heated controversy, Franco Harris' now-famous "miracle catch."

With six seconds left in that contest, Harris fielded a pass which bounced off the shoulder pad of Raider defender Jack Tatum and sprinted for a touchdown for a 13-7 Steelers victory.

The Raiders disputed the legality of the play, claiming the ball actually bounced off intended receiver John Fuqua. Fuqua refused comment. The play was ruled valid during the game after a field official checked with a league official in the press box, who reviewed an instant replay on a nearby television set.

Raider coach Bill Madden and owner Al Davis were unavailable for comment on the latest charge, but the club spokesman said "it was a joke between our players and Tom Keating."

"The guys got on Keating and even wrote stuff in Keating's locker," he said. "Somebody apparently over-reacted."

As for the ball, the spokesman said "the charge is ridiculous. Officials check all game balls."

The Vaseline charge was equally puzzling, the spokesman said. "How would they (Steelers) know, unless they were holding?"

Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll refused comment Monday, saying only that "these administrative matters will be handled by the league."

McNally said he would review Sunday's game films and would also discuss the clock issue with the official who operated it.

The Steelers led a recent fight to make the scoreboard clock official, and part of the movement involved making clock operators "independent."

"They are independent but they are still assigned by the home city," a Steeler spokesman said. "They are paid by the league and we don't have a contract with them. But, for example, we have the same operator at games here and he's from Pittsburgh."

Giants' Future Too

NJ Complex in Doubt

TRENTON (UPI) — The proposed New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority complex has received a political setback that makes it unlikely the New York Giants football team will move in 1975, New Jersey's efforts to construct a football stadium and a race track in the Hackensack Meadows hit another snag Monday when Gov.-elect Brendan T. Byrne withheld his support from Gov. William T. Cahill's plan to finance the complex.

Cahill said additional delays could "imperil" the project. A spokesman for the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, builder of the complex, said it is already too late to have a stadium constructed in time for the start of the 1975 season and that it could only be ready for late 1975, if construction begins within days.

The Giants will play home games again next year in the proposed New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority complex, and they have the option of renewing their lease at Yale alongside the stadium at the complex.

Byrne, a Democrat elected by a landslide last Tuesday, refused to rally his party behind a Republican proposal to finance the construction with bonds backed by the state's "moral pledge" to pay off investors, if necessary.

During his campaign, Byrne said the state did not need another race track.

In a statement Tuesday, he said he has a "commitment to bring the Giants to New Jersey," but he asked for an additional two weeks to study alternatives to the "moral pledge" plan.

Richard C. Leone, who is handling the transition of state government under Byrne, pressed doubts that date could be met.

up with financial aid for other race tracks that would be affected by a planned flat track alongside the stadium at the complex.

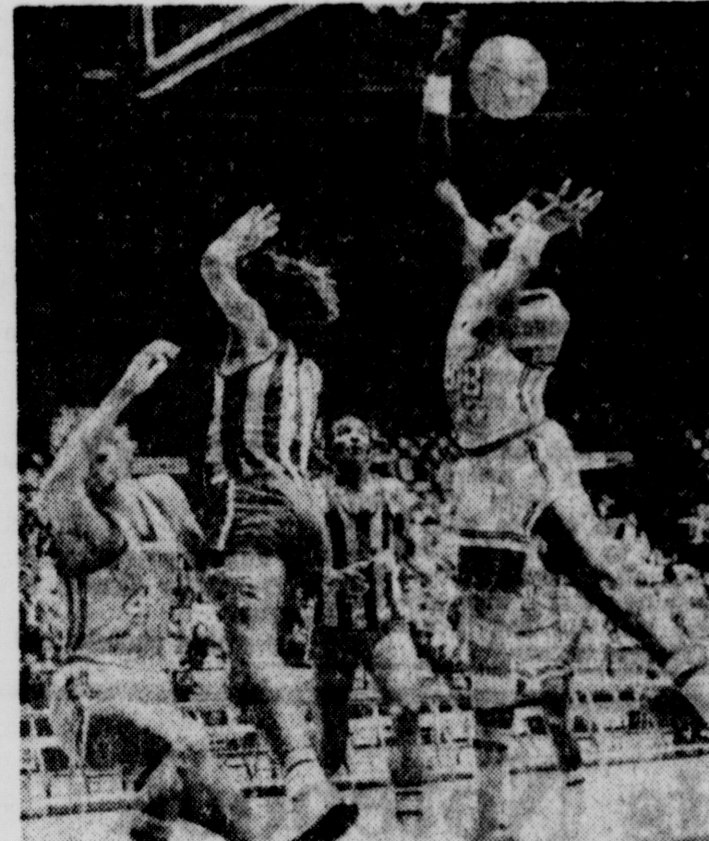

"We are looking at ways of making the (sports complex) package more attractive," Leone said.

He said Byrne is looking at financial aspects, costs to the state and alternative uses of the stadium.

"We would not rule out any alternatives," Leone said.

He also said Byrne was trying to get the New York Giants to extend beyond Dec. 1 their deadline for a guarantee by the state that the stadium would be built.

The Giants hoped to move into the stadium for the 1975 season, but Byrne aides expressed doubts that date could be met.

World Golf Tournament Failing?

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — There is every indication that this may be the first and last World Open Golf Tournament.

"We have a two-year contract," said Bill Maurer, president of the sponsoring corporation, "but we have an understanding that we can be excused next year if we want to."

He didn't say specifically, but there were hints that he might exercise that option.

The world's richest tournament, offering $500,000 in total prizes with a record $100,000 to the winner, has been a financial flop in the first half of its inaugural two-week run.

It has been one of the poorest-attended tournaments on the pro tour this year. Attendance figures have not been announced, but the galleries numbered only a few hundred — if that — daily.

There are three principal reasons: —The absence of some of the game's top gate attractions — Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf, Lee Trevino, U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller.

—A cold front that sent temperatures plummeting into the 20s; and —The relative inaccessibility of the Pinehurst Country Club in central North Carolina, well removed from any population center.

It's the first point, however, that has Maurer bitterly unhappy.

"I'm the first to recognize that the players are independent operators and can play or not as they choose," he said.

"What I don't like are the things they are quoted as saying about the tournament in the press. Weiskopf was quoted as saying he'd rather go hunting."

He also pointed out that in a nationally-circulated golf magazine a picture of Trevino sticking out his tongue was run alongside a story on the tournament.

Maurer also criticized press coverage of the tournament in which the absence of Nicklaus, Weiskopf and Trevino was mentioned prominently.

He declined to say how much it cost to produce the tournament. One-half million goes in prize money. Most estimates go between $750,000 and $900,000.

Even with a solid sale of advertising in the tournament program — Maurer said $400,000 worth of ads were sold in a program that cost $100,000 to produce — the tournament is in for a heavy loss.

The second half of the 144-hole event begins Wednesday with journeyman touring pro Gibby Gilbert holding a five-shot lead at 280. Tom Watson and Al Geiberger are tied for second at 285, with Allen Miller at 286.

Whalers Edge Blades in WHA Contest

BOSTON (AP) — "This was the one we had to win," said Ron Ryan, coach of the New England Whalers after his World Hockey Association team beat the New York Golden Blades 3-2 in sudden death overtime at the Boston Garden. It was the only game scheduled in the WHA. No games were played in the National Hockey League.

Whalers' goalie Bruce Land was awarded the first star for his performance Monday night, and Ryan said, "He's had two great games the last two nights. He's been really super, and he's just completely saved us."

It was the third game in three nights for the Whalers, and although they lead the World Hockey Association's Eastern Division, they had dropped the first two.

Houston and Tulane were lined up for the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl Monday night. Texas Tech appeared headed for the Gator Bowl against Tennessee and the Sun Bowl seemed to have a Missouri-Auburn matchup in the works.

Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl, and the Rose Bowl is a locked-in affair that will feature the team to the Fiesta Bowl as the winner of the Southern Cal-UCLA contest against the LSU winner of the Ohio State-Michigan game.

The winner of the Western Penn Athletic Conference is the host team in the Fiesta Bowl. Texas will probably face team in the Fiesta Bowl.

Padres Obtain Glenn Beckert

CHICAGO (UPI) — Glenn Beckert assured the San Diego Padres today that they have acquired a starting second baseman for 1974.

The Padres Monday sent 24-year-old outfielder Jerry Morales, heading toward his third major league season, to the Chicago Cubs in return for Beckert, who boasts a career batting average of .284 for nine major league seasons.

"I imagine I'll be playing," Beckert said. "Any time you go to spring training, you're going to be all out to win a job. If you slack up at all, you'll be out in the cold, and I'll be out to win a job."

Beckert said he "kind of expected to be traded, but I didn't know what club," and he said he was "pleased" about the deal.

Yet he hinted at a bit of bitterness when he said, "It's kind of exciting, to be 11 years with one organization and then be traded."

Beckert has been hampered for the past two seasons by an injury to his left ankle and Oct. 31 had successful surgery to remove a bone spur.

"It feels great," he said. "I'm walking on it and doctors assure me, it's better than ever. I'll start running in December."

Finley, Kuhn To Meet on Fines

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has requested, and been given, a hearing on the $6,000 fine handed down by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The hearing will be held Friday in the commissioner's office in New York.

Finley is only protesting the $4,000 portion of the fine levied on him in connection with the Mike Andrews case, which he says "was unjust."

Zoning Board Delays Decision

ROSENDALE

The Rosendale Village Zoning Board of Appeals has delayed a decision on whether to approve or refuse a zoning change that would permit construction of a 168-unit apartment and condominium complex on Creek Locks Road.

Developer Mario Renda has requested the change from single family residential to multiple dwelling zoning for a 14-acre parcel, just east of Route 32 in the village.

The request was made at the Oct. 15 meeting of the Zoning Board; the board said then it would have its decision by last night's session.

Monday's meeting was devoted, however, to further examination of the proposed development, with the developer and his engineer on hand to answer further questions from the Zoning Board members. It was indicated that a decision could be made by the November 28 meeting of the Rosendale Village Board.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday November 14

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day not to allow yourself the luxury of feeling you have been imposed upon or that persons are taking advantage of your good nature, which isn't likely to be so. Fine for work requiring application to details.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be sure you don't add fuel to emotional fires apt to be burning at home today or the results could be regretted. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Much care in motion should be exercised today or there could be an accident. Don't argue with fellow workers. Use reasonable methods.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use care or you could get into some financial mistake that could bring you much trouble in the near future. Cut down on expenses.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are apt to be overly sensitive today and think others are against you. Give a helping hand to one who may be indisposed.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to run away from duties that are yours and this could bring you much trouble later on. Avoid one who has a chip on his shoulder.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make sure that you are loyal to friends instead of criticizing them. Wait for a better time to attend a group affair.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being objective in handling a credit matter brings best results.

now. A civic duty can be easily postponed. Show devotion to mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Whatever has been difficult to handle in the past can now be done easily by using more modern methods. Don't let anyone upset you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The tasks ahead of you are tedious, but use determination and they will soon be behind you. Try not to quarrel with loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listening to what an associate has to say is fine, but don't let it bother you since it is unimportant. Sidestep one who opposes you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There are problems to iron out, so attend to them in true Aquarian fashion and they are soon solved. Do nothing erratic.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't be so determined to have a good time that it costs you plenty and gives you little satisfaction. Don't take any risks.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those clever young people who would do well in business or in helping others clear up their problems. Some discipline will bring self-control and sureness is needed here. The religious is very important in this chart. Music could be a very rewarding outlet.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

DISTANCE: (Q.) My boy friend is now a freshman at college 500 miles away. I am a senior in high school. We have been steady for two years but have agreed to date others while he is gone.

I am so afraid that being so far away he will turn away from me to somebody else.—Lonesome in Georgia.

(A.) You are wise not to try to keep an exclusive friendship going at so great a distance. Do not sit and pine for him but live up to your agreement by dating other boys.

In doing so you can test your love for him while he is testing his for you by going out with new girls he meets. If both of you have a true love for each other it will last. If not, you both will be better off for finding out.

NATURE BOY: (Q.) We have this boy in our neighborhood who is hooked on bugs. He has a chameleon that he leads on a string. Also all kinds of other crazy creatures. What can we do to get him off his bug fixation?—No Freak in Florida.

(A.) Let him be. Don't try to change him. He may be a great zoologist someday. So long as he does not hurt you he has the right to follow his own inclinations.

Also, being interested in nature is not being a freak. Also, a chameleon is not a bug. It is a type of a lizard.

Also, being interested in nature is not being a freak. That changes color in different lights or other conditions.

West complained about his partner's three-club call, but no one can really blame East. How could he have known what was actually happening?

This hand was played in a team of four match. At the other table, West passed as any normal bridge player would. North opened the bidding with one heart. South responded one spade and since South had passed originally, North elected to let the hand play at the one level. East could find no excuse to reopen and game was missed.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The boomerang is a sickle-shaped throwing stick with arms slightly curved in opposite directions as in an aircraft propeller. The only returning wooden boomerangs are used by Australian aborigines for sport. The World Almanac notes. Larger, less angled, nonreturning boomerangs have been used as hunting weapons in other areas of the world.

Energy Crisis Hits Commuters in Los Angeles

By United Press International

The hard facts of the energy crisis were brought home to Los Angeles commuters Monday with the announcement that fuel supplies are so short some daily bus service will be cut back and Sunday service will be canceled starting this weekend.

If not, and if the federal government does not issue an exemption from the monthly fuel allocation, said a spokesman for the Rapid Transit District, there will be no diesel fuel at all for the last four days of this month, stranding the system's 600,000 daily riders or forcing them to use automobiles.

John A. Love, the President's energy advisor, Monday said the fuel shortage was a "potentially chaotic" situation, adding, "If we continue to waste, to throw away, there will simply not be enough to go around for the necessary uses insofar as the economy is concerned."

A survey by the California Highway Patrol showed that many freeway drivers are voluntarily slowing down to conserve gasoline, a spokesman said. In other states, however, authorities took action to make lower speed limits official.

In Phoenix, Ariz., a spokesman for Greyhound Bus Lines said the new 50-mile-an-hour limit on some New York and New Jersey highways is having a "disastrous effect" on bus service. Buses use fuel most efficiently at 60 m.p.h., she said, and the slowdown is making it "impossible to be sure of connections."

Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel Monday signed into law a bill giving him sweeping authority to cope with the energy shortage, including suspension of anti-pollution standards.

An exception to the trend was Arkansas, where Maurice Smith, chairman of the state Highway Commission, said the interstate speed limit would stay at 75 miles an hour, the highest in the nation, unless Congress decides otherwise.

He said it would be too dangerous to lower the limit to 50 because it couldn't be enforced and the people slowing down would be endangered by those drivers who refused to slow down.

"And the information I get is that it is not going to save all that much gasoline," Smith said.

In other developments:

- State employees in Michigan said they fielded hundreds of "hotline" telephone calls Monday from people who could not find heating fuel.

—The superintendent of schools in Buffalo, N.Y., said classes may have to be canceled starting Friday if more heating oil cannot be found.

—The Environmental Protection Agency approved a Massachusetts plan that permits the use of high-sulfur content oil for heating and industry. The Consolidated Edison utility in New York asked the Public Service Commission for permission to do the same.

—The president of the Iowa State Education Association proposed extending the school day and operating on a four-day week to conserve energy. He said a suggestion to extend the Christmas vacation period and make up for it in the summer would hurt agriculture and businesses which rely on students for summer help.

—Qantas Airlines said three of its seven flights a week to San Francisco would terminate in Honolulu starting Nov. 20. This and other measures would mean a 30 per cent saving on fuel, a spokesman said.

—Robert Roache, the owner of an Indianapolis fireplace store, said the demand is increasing, and most people buying homes want two or three. Robert Griggs, who sells firewood, said his orders have increased by one third. A dealer in house insulation said the demand is so high "we can't get the insulation fast enough."

—Residents of Block Island, R.I. decided to return to Daylight Saving Time in an effort to save energy. "I'm sure the rest of the country is going to catch up with us in a very few days," said Herbert Whitman, president of the town council.

—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the Navy had committed "an enormous waste of fuel" in flying 564 midshipmen and 75 band members to New Orleans for last Saturday's Navy-Tulane football game. He also suggested that the limousines the government provides for high-ranking officials be retired in favor of small cars and car pools.

—Lawrence Hannare of Warren, Mass. bought a wood-burning stove recently "to save a little fuel." But the stove overheated Sunday and set his house on fire, causing $4,000 worth of damage.

Campaign Financing Probe Goes On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doubled disclosures about President Nixon's campaign finances are expected following the $6,000 fine of Braniff Airways and its chief for an illegal 1972 donation.

The Senate Watergate committee called two officials of the American Ship Building Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, for questioning today about another contribution.

And Nixon's special prosecutor Leon Jaworski was scheduled to file more charges in court against yet another illegal donor.

Braniff and its chairman Harding L. Lawrence pleaded guilty Monday to separate criminal counts of donating $40,000 to Nixon's presidential campaign out of the Dallas-based airline's corporate treasury.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. fined Braniff the maximum $5,000. Lawrence was fined $1,000, the maximum for an individual, but escaped a possible jail term. He could have been sentenced to a year in prison.

Through Monday, seven corporations admitted making illegal corporate contributions to Nixon's campaign.

Four of them — Braniff, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. and American Airlines — have been charged, convicted and fined. No jail terms were imposed.

The other three are Phillips Petroleum Co., Ashland Oil Co. and Gulf Oil Corp.

The special prosecutor's office has recommended leniency for corporations that confess illegal donations voluntarily.

No such admission was made by American Ship Building, although the Washington Star-News reported in September that eight employees received company bonuses the same day they gave a total of $25,000 to the Nixon campaign.

All eight have been subpoenaed to testify before the Senate committee and a federal grand jury, and have been granted immunity for any self-incriminating statements.

In Monday's court appearance a lawyer for Lawrence said the airline chief "was under some pressure to make this contribution."

He gave no details, but Lawrence is scheduled to be questioned publicly before the Senate committee.

Except for Phillips Petroleum, officials of the confessed corporate donors are slated to testify at the Watergate committee hearings.

Lawrence's lawyer, Dennis Lyons told Judge Hart the executive had five children and a spotless record. Lawrence personally apologized for the illegal donation.

He said he now believes the donation was a serious mistake, and said the money had been returned.

Lyons said Braniff took no tax deduction for the illegal donation, sought no government

Shootout in New York Courtroom

NEW YORK (UPI) — A man being arraigned on charges of kidnapping and threatening to kill his former girl friend, Lois Lockhart, 32, drew a pistol in court Monday and shot Miss Lockhart in the head. The gunman then pointed the gun at the rest of the courtroom.

Judge Richard Brown and more than 100 spectators ducked for cover. A policeman drew a revolver and fired twice at the gunman, but missed. The gunman, identified as William Spruill, then shot himself in the head.

Spruill, 39, an unemployed mechanic, and Miss Lockhart, a legal secretary, were hospitalized in critical condition. No one else was hurt.

The shooting took place at 12:30 p.m. in Manhattan Criminal Court. Brown, 41, sitting for his first full day on the bench after being appointed recently, drew a revolver and fired twice at the gunman, but missed. The gunman, identified as William he ducked under the bench for cover.

"He whipped out a revolver, pointed it at the woman and fired at her," Brown said.

"After firing at the woman, he raised the gun at the rest of the courtroom, and I went under the bench. I stayed under the bench until court officers came and said everything was all right."

Spruill, who police said was from Coran, N.C., was arrested in New York Oct. 31. He was to be arraigned on charges of kidnapping, reckless endangerment and weapons violations, all charges initiated by Miss Lockhart.

The Manhattan district attorney's office said that two years ago Miss Lockhart had been charged with shooting Spruill, and police found a loaded pistol in her purse after Monday's courtroom shootout. The two had known each other for about 10 years.

Royalty at Pre-Wedding Ball

LONDON (UPI) — The great names of Europe's imperial past whirled by under the blazing crystal chandeliers of Buckingham Palace today at a ball in honor of Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips.

The 1,500 guests danced until the early morning in the great white and gold state ballroom to herald Wednesday's wedding at Westminster Abbey of Queen Elizabeth's only daughter to the commoner son of a sausage company executive.

It was the most exclusive dance of the year, preceded by an even more exclusive dinner in the adjoining throne room for 100 guests.

The queen and her husband, the duke of Edinburgh, presided at the dinner attended by Prince Charles—heir to the throne—a dozen other members of "the blood royal," Princess Anne, Capt. Phillips and his parents.

The palace's head steward and two assistants in black and silver breeches commanded a small army of liveried footmen who served the meal—as British royalty is always served—wearing white cotton gloves.

Then the diners, including Peter Phillips, father of Mark and a purchasing agent for a sausage firm, moved from the scarlet-canopied throne room to the ballroom to join the rest of the guests.

Princess Anne, 23, and Capt. Phillips, 25, opened the dance. As the tall, young couple made a circuit of the floor, the other guests swept out, among them relatives of the House of Windsor with names and titles from a Europe of other days.

The Karageorgevitchs were there—Prince and Princess Tomislav and Prince and Princess Alexander, all of the Yugoslav royal family. Prince sometimes mentioned as a possible marriage choice of Prince Charles, who celebrates his 25th birthday on his sister's wedding day.

Princess Georg of Hanover were there and Princess Margerita of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, the Margrave and Margravine of Baden and Prince and Princess Ludwig of Baden.

One name among those at the festivities may have more than passing interest—Lady Leonora Grosvenor, 24, daughter of the duke of Westminster and one of Britain's great heiresses. She is
